All About Wheat
Something About Goats
Rye and Corn
And Uncle Sam's Experiment

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

CHICAGO, March 13—The [illegible] stories about prohibition, [illegible] England, France and Japan [illegible] in the way of permitting [illegible] and about some other [illegible].

[illegible] worry about WHEAT.

It is no longer a question of pleasing farmers or holding farm votes [illegible]. It is a question for the [illegible] business of the United States. [illegible] of all the business [illegible] of all workers.

Fairly [illegible] figures follow from reports [illegible] Government and business men [illegible] invited to consider them to predict the final result of the government's attempt to corner the wheat crop by [illegible] it for more than the world pays at present prices and storing it.

THIS country last week exported [illegible] bushels of wheat. Canada [illegible] with an export of 4,700,000 bushels.

Canadians have turned their wheat into cash. Our government takes the farmers' wheat and turns it into the grain elevators to be stored to increase the world "carry over."

The government fears that a serious shortage in wheat prices might have a bad effect on general business.

More important is the possibility that speculators holding up wheat prices may in the end produce disaster.

If government continues to buy at prices that make wheat exportation impossible July first, with the crop of wheat already under [illegible] for storage, will find no empty elevators to hold it.

The grain elevators in the United States are practically full now.

Nobody will buy wheat from the farmers in July when he has no place to store the wheat, and those that are really pessimistic say that when July comes it won't be a question of price, but a question of wheat [illegible] UNSALABLE.

MAY wheat sold in Chicago yesterday at a price fractionally higher than Liverpool's price, which controls the world's wheat markets.

Between Chicago and Liverpool there is a transportation charge of 15 to 18 cents a bushel.

The government in holding back American wheat is turning over the wheat markets of the world to the Argentine, Russia and Canada.

Unless government can get rid of its wheat it is hoping and others are fearing what will be done with the July crop, where will it be stored? How will it be sold.

Some men that understand grain, helped to form the Grain Board, declined. They knew what would happen.

In Minneapolis the government buys wheat from farm co-operatives for $1.07 a bushel against a normal price of $1.00. In Kansas City the government is paying $1.15 a bushel, against [illegible] $1.

United States elevators now hold one hundred and fifty-five million bushels of wheat, biggest storage in history.

* * *

EVERYBODY knows that the government and the Grain Board have a sincere desire to help the farmer and protect business generally.

But serious mistakes have been made with the generous desire to help.

A few months ago the government began to buy wheat at artificial prices. May wheat was selling at $1.00 a bushel. The price now is $1.16, in Chicago.

Rye, selling not long ago at $1.20, now sells at 90 cents.

Corn has suffered 10 cents a bushel for lack of elevator storage.

Some men looking ahead are building new elevators as fast as they can, certain that the government will be compelled to rent or buy them to take care of the July crop.

One Chicagoan said today: "I am getting rid of my wheat, emptying my elevators to rent them to the government. I have eight hundred thousand bushels of government wheat stored in one of my elevators and I know it is going to stay there indefinitely. The government pays me 15 cents a bushel for storage per year, $120,000 a year rent for my elevator. That suits me."

THE banker who suddenly found himself in the silk business when he refused to extend credit will sympathize with Uncle Sam, who finds himself suddenly in all kinds of business.

Millions have been advanced on cooperative creameries, on beans, on [illegible].

According to a circular of the National City Bank of New York, the government has advanced $8,000,000 on grain. It is supposed that the wheat when there will pay the debt.

The farmer, having tried raising Arcadia sweet, can testify that that isn't a necessity.

Grain men believe that the only hope of avoiding disaster, when the July wheat comes on top of the present enormous [illegible] lies in the possibility of a [illegible] crop shortage.

Winter wheat this year shows two per cent increase. With government [illegible] the intention to buy above the [illegible] buying of spring wheat [illegible] show a great increase.

[illegible] government miracles, it [illegible] nothing but a bad [illegible] would prevent disaster [illegible] July 1.

The amount actually bought by the government [illegible] at 40,000,000 bushels

SUGAR TARIFF BOOST UPHELD IN SENATE VOTE

Democratic-Insurgent Group Again Defeated in Contest Over Rates.

NYE MOTION VOTED DOWN

Old Coalition Crumbles as High Protection Alliance Receives Recruits

BULLETIN
By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13—A heated debate developed in the senate today over the changing of votes by individual senators on tariff rates after the coalition of Democrats and Republican insurgents failed in attempts to gain reconsideration of the increases on sugar and cement.

WASHINGTON, March 13—The "billion dollar" high protection alliance proved its might in the tariff war today when the senate refused to reconsider the sugar schedule and, in effect, approved for the second time a $32,000,000 increase in sugar duties.

A motion by Senator Nye, Republican of North Dakota, leader in the Democratic-insurgent coalition, to reconsider the sugar schedule was defeated 38 to 47. Three erstwhile insurgents and nine Democrats voted with the alliance, indicating the old coalition had crumbled in the tariff warfare.

Reaffirms Rates

The result of the ballot reaffirmed the senate rate of $2 per hundreds pounds against Cuban imports and $2.50 against world imports. The ultimate rates will range somewhere between these duties and those of the house which were $2.40 against Cuba and $3 for the world.

Senators Howell, Pine and Schall of the insurgent group and Senators Ashurst, Broussard, Copeland, Dill, Fletcher, Hayden, Ransdell, Thomas, Okla.) and Trammell, Democrats, voted with the alliance. Only 14 Republicans, most of them insurgents, voted to reconsider the sugar duties. They are Senators Allen, Bingham, Blaine, Borah, Brookhart, Capper, Cutting, Frazier, LaFollette, McMaster, Norbeck, Norris, Nye and Robinson, (Indiana.)

A few moments later the alliance again triumphed by defeating a motion to reconsider the $53,000,000 increase in duties on cement. This vote was 38 to 47. Again the alliance drew support from both the insurgents and Democratic ranks.

This ballot retained the six cents per hundred pound rate on cement which the senate adopted last week after having placed the item on the free list last January. Coalition leaders sought in vain to win back the deserters who voted to put cement on the free list and then switched to protection.

Walking to a nearby house he called an ambulance.

N. Y. MAGISTRATE OUSTED OFF BENCH

Judge Vitale Found Guilty of Unbecoming Conduct in Taking Loan.

NEW YORK, March 13—Magistrate Albert H. Vitale, storm center of local happenings since the slaying of Arnold Rothstein, today was ousted from his judge's bench following his trial before the appellate division.

He was found guilty of acting in a manner unbecoming to a magistrate in accepting a loan from Rothstein. He was acquitted of charges in connection with his dismissal of Charles Fawcett, confessed thief.

The charges against Vitale were brought by the New York Bar association.

The first charge involved a loan of $20,000 which Vitale received from the Rothmere Mortgage corporation, the concern of Arnold Rothstein.

George Z. Medalie, counsel for the bar association, which preferred the charges, told the court that on account of the $20,000 loan from Rothstein by Vitale that the gambler "carried Vitale in his rear pocket."

County Detention Home Is Not A Jail, Despite Its Bars, Reporter Finds

Institution for Juveniles Is Refuge for Homeless and Wayward

Mrs. Addison Bain Has Been in Charge as Superintendent for 13 Years

BY EDNA S. DUTTON
Marion Star Staff Writer

"A PLACE of refuge" is given by Webster as one of his many definitions for a home, while another is "the abiding place of the affections." Both adequately describe the Marion county detention home where Mrs. Addison Bain has presided as superintendent for the last 13 years.

Although those whose names are entered on the register are wards of the courts and an accounting must be made of their activities during their sojourn at 182 Wallace st., the big house offers them something other than a place to stay. It offers them a more than friendly interest, protection and helpful guidance along a better path.

The home, which is primarily a clearing house for the juvenile court, not only is a refuge for children of any age—up to 18 years—but quite frequently offers shelter to those of more advanced years, who otherwise would have no place to stay while awaiting word from relatives and financial aid on their journeys.

To the majority of juveniles the place is a real home, for they are welcomed as just another member of a large family and to Mr. and Mrs. Bain it means just one more chair at the large table and just another to share in their interest and affection. True, some are placed in solitary confinement and are not allowed the freedom of the house with the others, but in these cases the orders are from the court and

BAN AFFECTS SIX PRISONERS

Quarantine on County Jail Delays Start of Penitentiary Sentences of Four.

ONE GOES TO WORKHOUSE

Sixth Man Due for Release Friday Will Be Detained Until Order Is Lifted.

Five prisoners in county jail, sentenced this week by Judge George B. Scofield of common pleas court, will not begin serving their terms until the quarantine for smallpox is lifted from the jail, according to an order issued to Roy Chapman, deputy sheriff, by Judge Scofield today.

The jail was quarantined yesterday by Drs. W. J. Weiser, city health commissioner, when it was discovered Sheriff John J. Francis was suffering from a mild attack of the disease.

The five prisoners whose terms will not start for several days are M. E. Love, sentenced to one year in the state penitentiary for automobile stealing; Ben Brown, sentenced to not less than than one year in the penitentiary for burglary of a railroad car; Howard H. Brooker, fined $500 and sentenced to one year in the penitentiary on a liquor charge; J. C. McClellan, sentenced to one year in the Mansfield reformatory on charges of passing bad checks; and James Darnell, sentenced to 30 days in the Darton workhouse for carrying concealed weapons.

A sixth prisoner, Charles Burch, who is serving a fine and costs of $16.10 fine at $1.50 per day, would be eligible for release on Friday, March 21, but will be retained if the quarantine extends beyond the date.

Eight other prisoners are serving jail sentences that likely will extend beyond the quarantine limit and therefore are not affected by the ban placed on the institution.

HANNAH AND CONOLD FACING INDICTMENT

Couple Also Charged with Child Stealing in Horst Case.

By The Associated Press

WOOSTER, March 13 — Charles Hannah and Earl Conold, who have been held in the Wayne county jail for a month for investigation in the disappearance of four-year-old Melvin Horst, today faced first degree murder indictments.

The indictments were returned by the county grand jury late yesterday without the recommendation of prosecutor Marion Graven. It was believed the action was taken in an effort to frighten the pair into revealing what they may know about Melvin's disappearance from his home at Orrville on Dec. 27, 1928.

Attorneys for Conold, former railroad brakeman, said they would attempt to obtain his release today although it is unusual to grant bail for persons held on murder charges. Conold and Hannah will probably be arraigned today.

A joint indictment charging child stealing also was returned against the two men and Hannah said he was willing to plead guilty to the lesser charge, Graven said. Hannah has told a dozen different stories that Melvin was killed, alternately naming himself and Conold as the slayer, but had repudiated all of them.

Hannah also has named several places where he said Conold buried the body, but investigation has failed to substantiate any of his accounts. Conold, who at first blamed Hannah for Melvin's supposed death, has defied he knows anything about the case and refuses to answer questions unless his attorneys are present.

Graven said the two men probably would not be tried until sometime in May. In the meantime, the investigation will go forward and authorities will continue to question Hannah.

Woman Ties Husband to Bed Until Police Arrives

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, March 13—A woman here believes in giving authorities every aid in making an arrest.

County officers said they received a call from a woman last night and on investigation arrested her husband, T. C. Johnson, on a charge of intoxication. They said that when they arrived at the Johnson home they found Johnson tied to his bed.

The woman, the officers said, tied the husband so that he could not flee before officers arrived.

ILLINOIS MINE GRAFT CHARGES TO BE AIRED

Former Union Head Expected To Outline Reasons for Quitting Post.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 13—William J. Sneed, of Herrin, Ill., former vice president of District 12, was expected to be the chief delineator of alleged "graft and corruption" in Illinois mine union affairs before the thirty-first constitutional convention of the United Mine Workers of America here today.

Sneed was expected to outline his reasons for resigning as vice president of the Illinois district during the uprising against President Harry Fishwick.

Continuation of the testimonials of Illinois miners loyal to the regime of International President John L. Lewis was to consume most of the day.

Doubt was expressed that definite action would be taken against the Illinois rebels who sponsored the "rump" convention now in progress at Springfield, Ill., before tomorrow because of the large amount of testimony to record.

Delegates today rejoiced in the announcement that William R. Green president of the American Federation of Labor, will address the convention on Monday morning.

COAST GUARD MAKES USE OF RUM BOATS

High Speed Craft To Be Used Against Liquor Smugglers.

CLEVELAND, March 13 — Coast guard anti-liquor smuggling forces on Lake Erie were augmented today by addition of two more high speed boats converted from rum runners.

They were the notorious "Skiljie" and the equally infamous "Helen," now known respectively as "CG-9017" and "CG-9009."

Many of the coast guard boats on Lake Erie are converted rum craft, capable of speeds of 25 miles per hour and upwards.

Two other confiscated rum craft, the "Howey" and the "Idle Hour" are in dry dock here for repairs and alterations, and will join the coast guard fleet with a few weeks, according to Captain John J. Daly.

All of the four boats being added to the coast guard were captured in recent months near Cleveland while bringing in heavy cargoes of liquor from Canada.

INDICATION OF PROGRESS

French Leader Issues Statement Giving Parley Only Fortnight To Live.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13—Joseph P. Cotton, acting secretary of state, said today that he regarded pessimistic reports from London on the progress of the naval conference as an indication of probable success.

Mr. Cotton added that obstacles were certain to occur in the progress of such a parley and that many had been expected. He intimated, however, that he regarded the present situation as more the darkness before the dawn of achievement than an indication that the parley would fail.

The acting secretary said that such reports indicated solely that the delegates were hard at work in efforts to attain their goal of peace.

BRIAND GLOOMY OVER PROSPECTS

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 13 — Aristide Briand, head of the French delegation to the five-power naval conference and French foreign minister, today gave the naval conference only a fortnight to live.

He was frankly gloomy when he talked with French newspapermen at a conference from which press representatives of other countries were excluded, his depression, he intimated, arising from his failure to obtain a security pact for France in return for reduction of her naval estimates.

"I have finished my role," he said, adding that today "the whole thing will be handed over to the delegations."

Others of the French delegation minimized his discouragement tacitly, recalling that the Paris government all along has considered that the present conference should be only a prelude to general consideration at Geneva of the entire question of disarmament.

VESSEL IN FLAMES

15,000-Ton Liner Forced To Move Passengers, Crew

By The Associated Press

COLOMBO, Ceylon, March 13—Fire on the 15,000-ton liner Comorin early today necessitated removal of passengers and crew. Cause of the fire and extent of damage to the ship were not known immediately. The Comorin was enroute from England to Australia.

After 18 hours of fighting the fire in the Comorin, the flames were still not controlled. The vessel late today had listed 30 degrees to starboard.

The 204 passengers were stated to be seeking accommodations on other vessels as there was reason to believe the Comorin would be seriously delayed.

SIGNS YOUNG PLAN

BERLIN, March 13—President Von Hindenburg today signed the Young plan. The president's signature, making the plan a law, followed a Reichstag resolution declaring the law urgent and the federal council's approval of the resolution.

The president's delay on the associated measures was directed solely against the Polish agreement concerning which he desires to satisfy himself that it is not tantamount to a constitutional amendment.

BITTER FIGHT PREDICTED IN STEEL MERGER

Ohio Interests Seek To Prevent Youngstown-Bethlehem Deal.

STOCKHOLDERS TO DECIDE

Campaign for Proxies To Halt Billion Dollar Transaction Gets Under Way.

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 13—One of the bitterest battles for proxies in the history of the steel industry was in prospect today with the proposed merger of the Bethlehem Steel corporation and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. at stake.

Directors of both concerns late yesterday gave their approval to the consolidation, involving assets approaching the billion dollar mark, but the final decision rests with the sharply divided Sheet & Tube stockholders.

The charter of the Sheet & Tube Co. makes the ratification by holders of two-thirds of the 1,200,000 shares necessary for the merger. Youngstown and Cleveland interests who are opposed to the merger are reported to be in control of 500,000 shares.

Basis of Arguments

Eugene C. Grace, president of Bethlehem, and James A. Campbell, chairman of the Sheet & Tube board, urged the consolidation on the ground that products of the two concerns complement each other.

Back of the opposition is the reluctance of Ohioans to let control of the nation's fourth largest steel unit pass into the east and the rivalry of Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, who created the Republic Steel corporation. Republic stands in between Bethlehem and Sheet & Tube, and the merger would increase the security of Bethlehem's position as second only to the United States Steel corporation in producing capacity.

A proxy committee was formed by those sponsoring the merger. It includes Samuel Mather, of Cleveland, John Ted and Richard Garlick, of Youngstown, and Campbell.

Admit Opposition Plan

At the Cleveland offices of Otis & Company it was admitted steps were being taken by the Eaton interests to form a proxy committee to fight the consolidation.

The issue will be settled when Sheet & Tube stockholders meet April 7.

Under the terms offered by Bethlehem, all of the Sheet & Tube liabilities and bonds will be assumed and 1,600,000 shares of Bethlehem common would be exchanged for 1,200,000 shares of Sheet & Tube common. The Youngstown corporation would be dissolved and its liquid assets used to retire about $15,000,000 five and one-half per cent preferred stock.

Clear Path Seen for Another Merger

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 13—The road to acquisition of the Gulf States Steel Co., of Birmingham, Ala., appeared clear today for the Republic Steel corporation.

William H. Glover, president of Gulf States, issued a statement in New York last night saying that the controversy between the management and a number of shareholders, including Otis & Co., has been settled. Three of the company's nine directors will resign and three others elected in their stead with an "essential part of the agreement that important steps will be taken to study the possibility of effecting a consolidation," Glover said.

The announcement was regarded as a victory for Eaton's efforts to block consolidation of the Gulf States Steel with the American Rolling Mill Co., which recently announced termination of negotiations.

The consolidation would increase Republic's assets to $300,000,000, a gain of $15,000,000.

Hands Off Policy Seen in Haitian Election

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13 — Joseph P. Cotton, acting secretary of state, said today there was no indication that the United States would supervise the forthcoming presidential election in Haiti.

Cotton said the Forbes commission would work out a temporary arrangement by which the government would operate until the end of President Borno's term in May, when the elections will be held. He added that President Borno repeatedly had informed the state department he did not intend to run for re-election and that the situation in Haiti appeared favorable to stability at the present time.

Fight To Send Accused to Electric Chair Opens in Earnest Today.

By The Associated Press

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 13—The state's effort to send Irene Shrader to the electric chair on a charge of killing Corporal Brady Paul opened in earnest today with testimony designed to show that the gunwoman was a member of a party which held up a Butler, Pa., store prior to the Paul killing.

To back its contention that Mrs. Shrader and her companion, Glen Dague, killed Paul when he stopped their flight after the robbery, the state put on the stand Wish Angert, manager of the robbed store, who was positive in his identification of Irene and Glenn as two of the three persons in the holdup.

A Butler hotel clerk tentatively identified Irene as a member of the "Cartwright family" which stopped at the hotel the night before the holdup and killing, and a garageman gave a description of the "family's" automobile which tallied with that of the car used by Paul's slayers.

Describes Robbery

Angert described how the bandits ordered him into a back room at the point of revolvers, trussed him up with ropes and threw him to the floor.

Then they held up a customer in the front of the store, he said.

Harry Bracney, Butler garageman, testified that the "Cartwright family" which stopped at the Arlington Hotel was traveling in a Chevrolet coach with an Ohio license. This answers

PRINTERS TO VISIT HARDING MEMORIAL

Delegates to Ohio Typographical Conference Will Be Guests of Association.

Delegates and visitors to the April session of the Ohio Typographical conference to be held in Marion April 12 and 13, will be the guests of the Harding Memorial association Sunday noon, April 13.

Immediately after adjournment of the Sunday morning sessions of the conference, the delegates and visitors will board cars at the Hotel Marion for their trip through the Harding museum and to the Harding tomb. At the tomb a floral tribute will be placed by the officers of the state organization, with appropriate ceremonies. This has an added significance due to the fact that the late president was a member of Marion Typographical union, No. 675, at the time of his death.

Tentative plans of the committee in charge of arrangements for the conference call for the taking of a group photograph at the tomb.

Letters coming in to the local committee indicate that this session will be one of the largest-attended of any ever held by the state organization. It has been ascertained that there will be local unions represented at this conference which have not had delegates in several years.

FAMOUS GRID COACH SPEAKS FOR DRY LAW

Alonzo Stagg Takes Stand To Urge Retention of 18th Amendment.

SEES BENEFITS TO YOUTH

Says He "Trembles To Think" What Situation Would Be If Saloons Operated.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13—Alonzo Stagg, whose big maroon elevens of Chicago university have written many a chapter of football history, today urged retention of the eighteenth amendment before the house judiciary committee, saying it was his observation that the youth of the nation was better off under prohibition than it had been before.

As Stagg testified those in charge of the witnesses appearing in support of prohibition held a brief indorsing the eighteenth amendment prepared by Professor Irving Fisher of Yale, the well known economist. Fisher was not in the committee room and it was undecided whether the brief would be ready at today's session.

Veteran Coach

Stagg, whose name is known to college students throughout the nation, is one of the veteran coaches of the western conference, an organization composed of 10 big universities in the midwest. He said his home training "in comparative poverty was all that could be desired but the environment in which I played was far from helpful."

"The saloons," he went on, "were our substitutes for the movies, the theater, the motor car, the radio, the sea shore, reading and all. In bad luck men drowned their sorrows at the bar; in good luck, they celebrated there.

Sees Benefit to Youth

"In my judgment, since prohibition has been put into effect, hundreds of thousands more children have had a fairer start in life than existed in pre-prohibition days. With the breakdown of the home life and with all the complexities of new opportunities for being misled, I tremble to think what this revolt of youth might have led to were prohibition not in operation."

Calls Wets "Fanatics"

A statement that "the wets have become the fanatics" was made today before the committee by Carlton M. Sherwood, executive secretary of the Citizens Committee of One Thousand of New York City.

His testimony was concentrated upon a denial of evidence given by the wets to the effect that American business men are habitual violators of the prohibition laws.

He said he hesitated to use the word "fanatic" as he would hesitate to use the word "bigot," as both terms were employed for the most part "by folks who live in large and spacious" glass houses.

Reads Messages

He then proceeded to present more than 25 brief statements, many of them flatly denying the charge made at the hearing recently that American business men are habitual prohibition violators. Among them were messages from Robert Garrett, a Baltimore banker; Clarence H. Kelsey, of the Title Guarantee & Trust Co., of New York; Captain Robert Dollar of the Dollar Lines; J. C. Penney, founder of the Penney chain stores; Orrin R. Judd, president of the Irving Trust Co., New York; E. E. Idatheum, president of the National Cast Iron Pipe Co., Birmingham, Ala.; E. L. Smith, president of the National Association of Clothiers and Furnishers, Chicago; and Ralph H. Burnside, president of the William Lumber Co., Portland, Ore.

Sherwood also brought statements supporting the prohibition laws from Vic Donahey, former governor of Ohio, Bishop Frances J. McConnell, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America and Professor Henry W. Farnam, of Yale university, an economist.

PLAN TO REMODEL BUS STATION HERE

Expected Increase in Business Through Terminal Given as Reason.

Remodeling of Marion's bus terminal to take care of an expected increase in business was announced today by Ray Mang, president of the Mang Bros. Transportation Co.

Start of the Marion-Toledo line within the next few weeks is one of the factors influencing the proposed changes in the building, which is located on State st. north of Center st.

Plans for the remodeling include the rearranging of the interior to make more room for passengers.

Twenty-six buses leave Marion daily from the terminal, and this number will be increased with the opening of the Toledo line. The Marion-Findlay line, however, will be discontinued when the Toledo run is begun, and passengers for Findlay will be routed to Carey over the Toledo line and then transferred to a Findlay short-line bus at that point, Mang said.

Six buses will leave and six others will arrive daily over the Toledo line.

Other lines using the station as a terminal are the Marion-Kenton-Lima line, Marion-Galion-Mansfield line, Pittsburgh-Chicago, Greyhound, and Pittsburg-Detroit, Red Star.

Sheep Counting Habit To Induce Sleep Is Out of Date Like The Dodo Bird

By The Associated Press

HAMILTON, N. Y., March 13—The sheep habits of 500 distinguished American men were made public at Colgate university today and upset some popular notions.

The critical age when it is unsafe to lose sleep is 35. Contrary to classical anecdotes, men of important affairs sleep about the full eight hours. It is youth instead of age that sleeps the least.

Then that old fashioned way of getting to sleep by counting sheep jumping a wall is as out of date as Mary's lamb. Not that the fundamental method has changed but today only a sheep herder should pick on the dream sheep. For the rest of us there are more effective sleep potions.

35 Is Critical Age

The survey was made by Dr. Donald A. Laird, director of the Colgate university psychological laboratory. The ages of men ranged from 20 to 95 and some gave permission to disclose their identities. One 95-year-old subject is Brigadier General Aaron S. Daggett, U. S. A. Younger men include William Allen White and the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman.

Dr. Laird finds 35 years "the critical period when loss of sleep, or sleep on a train, shows most noticeable ill-effects. At this age poor sleep seems to bring more widespread bad effects than at other ages. Before and after this age sleep apparently

How a Family Doctor made Millions of Friends

FIFTEEN years after his graduation, Dr. Caldwell became one of the best-known members of his profession. A single prescription made him famous. And for forty years it has continued to make friends.

As fast as people could tell others about the marvelous way this prescription corrects constipation and relieves other troubles caused by sluggish bowels, demand for it spread until Dr. Caldwell was forced to have it filled in quantities; bottled and distributed through drug stores.

Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. Millions of people would never think of using anything else when they're headachy, bilious, feverish, or weak; when breath is bad, tongue is coated or they are suffering from nausea, from gas, or lack of appetite, etc.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin as you buy it from your drug store is made in accordance with the original formula from only herbs and other pure ingredients. It is pleasant tasting; its action is thorough in the most obstinate cases; gently effective for women and children. Above all, it represents a doctor's choice of what is safe for the bowels.

[illegible]sive. A dollar and [illegible]s. As Anne frowned at [illegible] Andrew did some rapid [illegible]Way in thunder didn't [illegible] prices even, like fifty [illegible]lar, or a dollar and a [illegible] figuring, he had al- [illegible] the following amount:

[illegible]
[illegible] consommes)
[illegible]atever grenadin Tal- [illegible] was)—

[illegible] in the game, made the [illegible] more nor less—certainly [illegible] $4.05. Taken from the [illegible] was John Andrew's en- [illegible] this left $2.85.

[illegible] Anne, blithely, "arti- [illegible]ne" (60 cents). "And [illegible]ready, but this's fun——"

"Um," said John Andrew, sorrowfully, "no salad for me. I'll just have a demi——"

And for good reason:

$4.85 (the previous total)
1.20 (2 artichokes)
1.10 (1 salad)—

now making $7.25.

"I'm not as hungry as you are," said John Andrew as the total hit him. "I think I'll not have either the artichoke or the soup. I never did like soup. Even as a child I went away from the table rather than eat it"—thus shuffling the figures back to $6.20. John Andrew leaned back more comfortably.

"You aren't playing up at all," Anne pouted. "You've talked about ordering a perfect dinner until you've made me feel starved, but now——"

Unhappily John Andrew said, "Had too much lunch."

"Would you rather we just had a salad now, and then eat later?"

"No—no," said John Andrew, hurriedly. This'll do very well. Now, how about something sweet?"

"O. . . . I don't know . . . biscuit tortoni?"

"Ninety cents; two demis, probably twenty-five each, making the total $7.60, with the waiter still to be fed. "On second thought," said Kellogg, "I believe I'll have a couple of lamb chops. Healthful, chops are. Very fond of 'em. Always was. Seven dollars and five cents."

Anne stared at him. "What did you say?" John Andrew, hearing, felt despair clutch at him with icy fingers. "Seven dollars . . . what about them?"

"Figuring about the . . . the manufacture cost of . . . er . . . lenses for the Blake-Kellogg if we decide to make them ourselves for Consolidated. Good idea. Give us additional profit. We can ——"

Anne let him run down, looked at him curiously once, and then watched some of the other diners in the Spanish room. . . .

She was still silent when the waiter began to take the order; John Andrew gave it with little interest. "Caviar canape for madam, and then the consomme Milanais for both of us, and next . . . "

A hand on John Andrew's shoulder made him start almost guiltily; the man who was standing beside his chair was vaguely familiar. "I've often wondered if I'd ever see you again, Kellogg," the man and girl neard. "Don't you remember me? Edwards? We worked in the same department at Simpson-Carter's."

John Andrew fought off his glum mood and nodded; standing also, he said, "Miss Ames . . . Mr. Edwards."

"What are you doing here?" Edwards asked—the waiter standing patiently on the far side of Kellogg. "I never thought I'd ever see you again. Wrote you once—or started the letter, and then didn't know where to send it." He began to laugh, sad, glancing apologetically at Anne, went on: "I'll never forget the day old man Carter came into the office and fired you. Gosh, how we all laughed about it. You told him he thought he was so important that he ought to be directing the Federal Reserve bank."

"Don't mention it," said John Andrew, fearfully.

"He was the only kick we had in the office," Edwards said to Anne, who tried to smile brightly. "I've got a good memory . . . and I didn't forget I owed you $10 either. Never thought I'd have a chance to pay it back. Here it is—"

"Don't mention that, either; glad to have been able to let you have it."

"I'm in real estate here; if"—smiling toward the girl again—"you ever want anything in an exclusive, restricted district, street work all in, let me know. I'll selling Hollywoodlawn——"

"Sounds like a cemetery," John Andrew suggested. "I suppose if you buy a corner lot there the chances are you'll have to pay taxes on it, eh?"

"Our taxes are very low, considering . . . O, you're kidding again, old man. He used to have the stenographers in tears at Simpson-Carter's . . . well, glad to have seen you again, old man. Come out to the subdivision some time; our buses leave in front of the square every hour; no charge."

Anne's face was very thoughtful; John Andrew looked toward her only once, and then asked the waiter, "Just where were we in this business of food?"

"The consomme, sir . . ."

John Andew tucked the bill into his vest pocket; $10 plus $7.80 certainly removed one immediate worry. "I've rather forgotten what we decided on."

"Order whatever you like," said Anne.

John Andrew said, "O, I see." He did, too. "Very well. Instead of whatever I have told you we'll have two canapes and some sort of chicken consomme, although I don't see it on the menu. Filet of Merlan Orly . . . if it's good it's wonderful, and we'll have some. Next . . . O, the grenandin'll do, with some sort of souffled potatoes . . . escarolle, alone, and I'll make the dressing, and I want the oil cold, but not frozen. Tarragon vinegar. Hmm. Artichokes and salad is all wrong. New peas—and not in cream. Biscuit tortoni for madam, and a bit of cheese and hard wafers for me."

"And we might have sweet butter and rolls?"

"Excellent, sir."

"How does that sound, Anne?" Kellogg asked expansively. "There's food for hungry people."

"It sounded as if you were a multi-millionnaire," said Anne. "But you weren't so hungry until Mr. Edwards gave you $10, were you?"

John Andrew gulped.

When the canapes had been served he asked: "What's the matter? I thought you were starving?"

"It's delicious," Anne said dutifully.

"Then eat, woman. Look at me." John Andrew indeed was doing very well considering the size of the lunch he had enjoyed at the Poinsettia.

"John Andrew . . ."

"Kellogg. Yes'm. Some people call me Andy, too."

"You heard what the man said about your being . . . discharged."

"Those fellows are with us always. The kind who drag out old photographs. They took one of me, in topper and spats, as Georgie Morton's best man, and——"

"John Andrew! High hat, spats, a fashionable wedding, and . . . fired from a place like Simpson-Carter's!"

Kellogg could understand Anne's distress. She thought him a four-flusher, a huge bluff, a windbag, perhaps a playboy, but in a different sense than Barbara had; Anne . . . why, Anne loved him in spite of things.

"Was the manager of the Poinsettia like the landlady because they both wanted you to pay your bill?"

"I never answer riddles while eating," Kellogg countered.

"We're going to have a terrible time of it," the girl said. "But——"

John Andrew waited. "But what?" he prompted.

"You know," Anne smiled crookedly.

Lack of appetite, loss of strength, skin eruptions, that "tired feeling" and other human ills may be due to a lack of red-cells in your blood.

If you are tired—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S.

"MY despair was so great I could have cried. The good cheer and merry happiness of others only mocked at my condition. I had begun to wonder why life could be so cruel. No appetite. No strength. Skin blemishes always embarrassed me. Aches and pains coursed through my body. I wanted to restore my health and live. What was I to do? . . . happily the day came and I found the right road to Health when a friend recommended S.S.S."

You may be one of the thousands with a low blood count—to this may be attributed "run-down" systems, skin troubles, and even more serious ailments. It is very dangerous to let the blood count remain below normal.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin. Naturally, with your strength restored, it is easier to fight disease and infection; to enjoy your food and to sleep soundly. When firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby, you will feel strong—your nerves will become steady—more happiness and friends will follow.

S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself and friends to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build rich, red blood. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical. S.S.S. Co.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

I EXPECT winter has went. It rained all night. When I let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth the raindrops were still dripping through the eavetrough that has a hole in it just above where by neck comes when I let him down, and when I had milked the dummed brutes my father said it looked like it had been raining, and by grandfather said he had been outside and if anybody had prayed for rain they had certainly got their prayer answered. He said it had been a trash-lifter and a gully-washer and a world deodorizer. He said if it rained like that forty days and forty nights before Noah got his ark built he would of had to taken a pair of whales on board to keep them from drownding to death and the waters would never have subsided because there would not have been any place for them to subside to, and my aut told him to not make light of sacred things, and he said if a whale was a sacred thing he was an old maid. She said he would have to admit there was worse things than old maids, and he said he would admit it, but he couldn't think right off what they were. I wanted to ast him if he had thought about ants, but I saw my father looking at me so I changed my mind.

The rain has washed all the snow out of the world and when we got as far as the Lost Bag of Tripe's he had their shovel out in front and was making him a damn acrosst the ditch, and it wasn't time for school yet so we all helped him. Maggie took the shovel and Feeble was acrosst the ditch stooping over to pick up a rock to put on the damn with her back toardst the ditch and Maggie brang the shovel down flat on top of the water in the damn as hard as she could right behind Feeble. I never did see a bigger splash and Feeble made a noise like a punctered tire and straightened up, and Maggie looked innocent and asted her what was the matter, and Feeble said it she was into to tell the teacher she had went home to get wring out and she didn't know what her mother would think. I think Maggie has got it in for Feeble for something.

The sun came out and shone all day and I think it will be snake and frog and mud-turkle season before so very long and then a fella can have some fun if he ain't a girl, and most of the bunch ain't. My grandfather went to the lake fishing and his another old man over the head was his minnie pail, and a copper said to them, "If you kids don't cut that out what will you be when you grow up?" I don't see what there was about that to make a man mad, but my grandfather fussed about it till bed time. Grown-ups are funny.

Love's Reawakening

A Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Visits the Savarin Home

I PICKED up Harry Underwood's sentence which he had left hanging, and finished it.

"If Lil needs you there is nothing you wouldn't do, I know," I told him. "But she doesn't, and she won't. I can guarantee you that. I know Mrs. Cosgrove very well, and, though she may be resentful of Lillian's changed attitude toward her brother, she will never let Lillian feel her displeasure.

"You're attributing superhuman control to the lady," he drawled, "but I'll take your word for it. And, after all, you're here with Lil. You can take better care of her in this affair than I can. So I'll catch the bus."

"And I'll hurry over to Cosgrove's," I said, "so I can tell you the conditions there before you go."

"You bully little scout!" he said approvingly. "Shall I take you to the gate? I don't want to get any nearer than that."

"What nonsense!" I exclaimed. "Please remember that I am not exactly a sheltered preparatory school girl. Find Lil and tell her what you've just told me—that if she needs you you'll go over there, or anywhere else. She doesn't need you, but she'll love your telling her just the same."

I turned and ran down the steps without waiting for his reply. But I heard his voice in his favorite expletive, "Well, I'll be fried in oil!" Then there came the sound of a closing door and I hoped that he had followed my advice.

The Cosgrove Home

I had no thoughts for him, however, as I entered the well-remembered Cosgrove house, illumined in the lower story, but which had only two lights gleaming from the second floor, one from the central hall and one through the drawn curtains of the room which I knew must be Robert Savarin's. All my attention was focused upon that upper room, in which the man who had loved Lillian so royally was fast fading out of life. How would he take the news that his adored and lost lady, whom he had thought he would never see again, was almost within calling distance? Or had that anguished letter of farewell been inspired by the secret, perhaps wholly sub-conscious hope, that Lillian would read the wild yearning to see her which must lie beneath his apparently resigned acceptance of the fact that she could not come to him? Was he even now wondering whether the morrow might not bring her to his bedside? I was sure that no one could have anticipated the snap decision and the swift automobile journey which had brought her from Long Island to the Catskills within the same day that had brought his letter to her.

But when, in answer to my knock, Mrs. Cosgrove opened the door, I was startled to have that usually poised, almost impassive, woman, grasp me by the hands, draw me inside the door and exclaim in tense but carefully lowered tones:

"Oh, I'm so glad you've come. I'm at my wits' end about Robert. But come into the sitting room, where I can tell you about it."

I followed her in and she put me in a chair near the fire, and took one near me when she had carefully closed the door.

"Robert's ears are so sharp," she explained, "and I wouldn't for the world have him guess that I was discussing him."

"How is he tonight?" I asked solicitously.

"Nothing Can Harm Him"

"Comfortably physically," she said. "Distinctly no worse; he never can be better, you know, poor Robert. But he is so restless tonight. He usually is the most considerate person in the world, but he has had me running to his room almost constantly since supper, wanting the arrangement altered, his own appearance improved—he has insisted upon being freshly shaved, for instance, and he has asked to be put into his best dressing gown. And he is sitting half propped up in bed, watching the door constantly. I would think that he had asked Lillian to come see him and was expecting her, only that he told me he had written her not to come when he sent her that picture of Marion—wasn't it wonderful?"

Her face was filled with the tender pride which always has been hers in her famous brother.

"There are not words to describe the exquisite beauty," I told her. "But tell me more of your brother. Will it do him good, or harm, to see Lillian tonight, or ought she to wait until morning." She can come over at any minute."

Mrs. Cosgrove's answer was prompt, and I guessed that her efficient, orderly mind had been considering that problem ever since she had heard that we were coming.

"Nothing can do him harm any more," she said soberly. "And—I would like her to see him tonight. You see, we never know what the next hour may bring—to us."

CLAIM PROHIBITION RATIFIED ILLEGALLY

New York Lawyers Assert Final Decision Should Have Been Made by People.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 13—The New York County Lawyers' association had before it today a report by a committee declaring ratification of the eighteenth amendment by the state legislatures and not by the people violated the tenth amendment to the constitution and was therefore illegal.

The report, which was drawn up after two years' deliberation, was adopted by the special committee on the eighteenth amendment by a vote of six to one. By a similar vote the committee moved to present its arguments to the United States supreme court. The report will be voted upon at the next general meeting of the association to be held in April or May.

After quoting the tenth amendment which reads: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution or prohibited by it to the states are reserved to the states respectively or to the people," the report says:

"The state legislatures, under control by either states or people, have not been made the agents of the people to vote away the people's rights or to give any additional power over them.

"The eighteenth amendment conflicts with these constitutional rights of the American people and can confer no powers on the national government over the people or their individual rights until ratified by the people themselves, assembled in constitutional conventions in their several states.

"Consequently, the attempts of congress and the courts to enforce the eighteenth amendment without its prior adoption by the people of the

STYLES FORECAST FOR 1960

EXPERT SEES TREND TOWARD SIMPLICITY IN MEN'S DRESS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK,—Clothes men wear today differ little from clothes men were 100 years ago.

From lapels of his waistcoat to cuffs of his trousers the business man of 1930 is tailored much like his forefathers of 1812—the year long trousers were introduced.

This was the fact confronted by Lee Simonson, modernist designer, when commissioned to design suits the well-dressed man may be wearing in 1960.

The 30-year look forward in men's fashions was required because the Theater Guild was producing George Bernard Shaw's new play, "The Apple Cart," with action 30 years in the future.

Not Much Change

Simonson concluded that men's clothes in 1960 may be pretty much like they are now.

But he has definite ideas about changes that ought to be made in men's suits, and he incorporated them into the costumes worn by two men-of-1960 in "The Apple Cart."

He cut away lapels and collars and had the coats themselves tailored on an excessively simple line, with a front that overlaps and requires but one concealed button, close to the right hip. The coat has but one outside pocket, a large slash pocket on the left side, which closes with a zipper.

He abolished the vest.

Trousers he cut as simply as the coat, eliminating cuffs.

"Men's clothes today abound with useless survivals from the nineteenth century," Simonson avers. "Lapels are a relic of the day when a waistcoat was real protection from cold, and men frequently turned up their coat collars.

Three-Button Origin

"The three buttons on either coat sleeve can be traced back to the day when a man unbuttoned his sleeves to fasten linen cuffs to his shirt.

Simonson has scant expectation that his reforms will be incorporated in men's clothes, although several tailors have shown lively interest in them. But whatever trend there is in male habiliments is toward greater simplicity, and Simonson thinks that someday—if not in 30 years, then in 130 years—men will get around to discarding the obsolete features of their dress.

Lee Simonson (right) thinks men in 1960 will wear a suit like that on Claude Rains (left).

Finds Babe on Porch

Salem, O., Woman Plans To Adopt Foundling Left at Home

SALEM, March 12—Smiling blue eyed, red haired Wanda Jean has a new home.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Amos Bush stepped onto her front porch and was surprised to find a wooden box there covered with a brown shawl. She took it into the house, removed the shawl, and looked into the eyes of a baby.

Mrs. Bush notified police but is in hopes that the investigation will not lead to a definite clue, as the tiny tot has already won a place in her heart.

In the box that contained the baby was clothing, peculiar to babies, and a note which read:

"Take good care of Wanda Jean, four months old——."

Mrs. Bush states that if nothing develops within a short time she will take steps to adopt the child.

MACK EXPECTS HARD FIGHT FOR FLAG

SAY "A"S TO HAVE TOUGH OPPOSITION

Veteran Manager Impressed with Work of Rookies; Thinks Other Clubs Have Improved.

Editor's Note—Herewith is the eighth of a series of baseball articles by James L. Kilgallen of International News Service staff who is touring the spring training camps of the major league clubs.

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 13—"I'd like my boys to win the pennant again this year but if we do it won't be an easy task."

Connie Mack, 67-year-old manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, world champions, made this declaration today as he sat in the sun on a bench back of first base at Terry Park and watched his players cavort around the diamond and outfield. "Kid" Gleason, his gray-haired coach, was injecting "pep" into the workout by hitting whizzing grounders from the home plate and Eddie Collins, former "king of second basemen" who was raised in the Mack school of baseball, hustled around the premises jabbering advice to rookies and veterans alike. It was a wide-awake, gingery aggregation.

"They look good, don't they?" said Connie, crushing his scorecard in his enthusiasm. "Their condition is much better than this time last year. They have a smoothness, a championship class about them. I suppose it comes from their winning the world's championship. They'll be hard to beat this year."

Asked how the team would line up for the first game of the season, Mack quickly replied:

"Exactly as they lined up in the world series. Mickey Cochrane behind the plate. Jimmy Foxx at first. Max Bishop at second. John Boley at short. Jimmy Dykes at third. Bing Miller in right field. Mule Haas in center and Al Simmons in left. Of course I don't know this early who will pitch the opening game."

Strong Pitching Staff

Mack's pitchers are rapidly rounding into form. He has as possible starting pitchers Lefty Grove, Rube Walberg, George Earnshaw, Eddie Rommel, Jack Quinn, Howard Ehmke and Ossie Orwoll—perhaps the grandest array of flingers in the league. He also has several excellent prospects, including Bill Brecknridge, Leroy Mahaffey, Glenn Liebhart and Al Mahon. Brecknridge was with the "A's" last season; Mahaffey is a six footer purchased from Portland; Liebhardt is the 19-year-old son of the former Cleveland pitcher and Mahon is a 20-year old youngster from Pilger, Neb.

"It won't be easy for us to repeat this year because the other clubs in our league have improved," said Mack. "The Yankees are a powerful hitting team, of course. Cleveland and St. Louis are first class clubs. I like the Chicago White Sox's chances very much for they have developed some fine youngsters.

"Washington and Detroit did not play the ball they were capable of last season and the Red Sox are a fast, young ball club that is getting better as they gain in experience. It should be an exceptionally good race in the American league this year."

Rookies Look Good

"Have any of your youngsters impressed you this spring?" he was asked.

"Yes, indeed," Mack replied, warming up. "Eric McNair, a shortstop who was with Knoxville, Tenn., last year, and Dibrell Williams, a second baseman whom we purchased from Little Rock, look like great prospects. So does Roy Tarr, a shortstop we bought from McCook, Neb. All three of them are only 20 years old. All they need is experience."

Mack also said he liked first baseman Jim Keesey, a tall, aggressive chap who was with Portland, Oregon, last season. Mack had him several years ago.

McNair's home is in Meridian, Miss.; Williams' is Greenbriar, Ark., Tarr lives in Topeka, Kans., and Keesey calls Portland his home.

As reserve outfielders, Mack has Do Witt Lehourveau and Homer Summa, two hard hitters, both of whom throw right handed and bat from the left side of the plate.

"We have been fortunate this spring in the way of avoiding injuries," said Mack. "Boley's arm, which was troubling him last season, is in good shape. We should get away to a fine start if condition means anything."

Mack looked as young as he did 10 years ago. He said he does not realize he is getting older. He has been playing a lot of golf and shooting in the low 80's. He has no idea of giving up baseball.

Asked if he thought his nerves would stand the ordeal of another world series, the tall tactician of the A's smiled and said:

"I'll take a chance on the nerves to win another pennant."

WILL ORGANIZE NEW RECREATIONAL CLUB

Steam Shovels Sponsor Indoor Baseball All City League.

Efforts to organize a league for indoor recreational baseball are being made by Francis Bacon, athletic director of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. It is planned to open membership in the league to any Marion team which may desire to enter. There will be no entry fee charged for participation and all games are to be played on the floor of the steam shovel gym. Any group who may wish to enter a team in the league should get in touch with Mr. Bacon as soon as possible at the steam shovel offices.

This league will afford an excellent opportunity for teams to get into condition who expect to compete in summer outdoor recreational ball play.

It is expected to limit the number of teams in the circuit to eight and there are already two or three entered. Plans for the governing of the play will be drawn up at a meeting to be held the latter part of this week and competition will begin some time next week continuing until the opening of the outdoor season.

Cincinnati Reds Have Two Good Candidates

ORLANDO, Fla., March 13—Leo Durocher at short and Tony Cuccinello at second are providing the sensation at the Cincinnati Reds training camp. There is a feeling among the players that both may land the places regularly but Manager Dan Howley remains non-committal. Cuccinello has been holding down second in workout while Hughey Critz recovers from a lame shoulder, but Horace Ford, veteran shortstop, by no means shows any signs of letting down. The best hitters probably will land the regular assignments.

PAIN AFTER EATING!

"I have tried many medicines and none have given me the satisfaction that ACIDINE has," says Miss Mildred Wagner, 275 Clair St., Bridgeville, Pa., and she continues "After eating a meal (no matter what I ate) I would be troubled by a lot of gas. I now take a little of ACIDINE after each meal and it always relieves the pains around my heart."

If you, too, suffer from gas, sour stomach, colds, too much acid and the resulting indigestion, go to your druggist and get some tabloids ACIDINE at once. ACIDINE combats stomach trouble surely, safely, swiftly, successfully. ACIDINE is guaranteed to help in your case or money back.

BOXING COMMISSION TO SUSPEND BOXERS HABITUALLY FOULED

New York Board May Enact Boxing Baumes Law for Offenders

DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, March 13—There may be a boxing Baumes law on the books here within a matter of a week or so for chronic offenders in the so-called "foul racket," the Baumes law being one of those provisions so simple in operation that blind justice doesn't even need her pair of scales. She uses a blackjack, rampant on a field of cranium.

Specifically, the law provides that fourth offenders are to be given a private bed room, tastefully furnished in Indiana limestone, and all they give up is the rest of their lives. So when James A. Farley, chairman of the local boxing commission, admitted to the writer today that he was "seriously considering" a parallel in shotgun justice for the hardened practitioners of the below-the-bosom punch here, it seemed that at last dire deeds were about to be perpetrated in re-burial.

Tentatively and briefly, Farley's program is this:

First offense—Three months.

Second offense—Six months.

Third offense—One year.

He isn't as technical as Mr. Baumes and so he made no provision for fourth offenders. Maybe the third out retires the side and they start a new game. Anyhow, justice in all cases will be tempered with reason.

If such a rule is incorporated in the code, Farley said, it neither will be unyielding nor arbitrary in its operation.

"Maybe my idea is too drastic," he added. "I'd like to get the opinion of my colleagues on the commission before going into the thing too deeply but, in any case, I feel that drastic measures will have to be taken to combat a drastic situation.

"We have taken their money away from them and this doesn't work.

"Maybe if we take the money and also the means of making more, this will have some effect. Anyhow, it seems to be worth a try."

Would Apply Elsewhere

The gentleman apparently didn't find it necessary to add that a suspension of one year in New York is equal to 12 months in Massachusetts, 52 weeks in Pennsylvania and 365 days in Illinois. These major communities of boxing are affiliated with the local commission and its suspensions are theirs automatically, this being so likewise in several smaller states, the Dominion of Canada and in Europe. Therefore, if the sword is rattled here, its echo is heard almost around the world.

As for the proposed tempering of justice with reason, this is no more than horse intellect. Larry Johnson, for instance, is going down to the commission tomorrow to collect about $4,000 less than his original purse, because he mistimed a leaping Lena by the name of Maxie Rosenbloom the other night. It is not my province or purpose to attempt to say what was in the mind of a prize fighter, this being a problem that has confounded the world for eons or something. All I can say is that Rosenbloom was able to make no studied effort to avoid the punch. Of course I am mistaken but it seemed to me that he almost met it with joyous abandon.

In my case, Larry Johnson loses $4,000 and, under the circumstances, if this isn't enough to appease justice, then the rest of it will have to be written off as an unsatisfied judgment.

One of the most frequent hallucinations is that someone dislikes you, who doesn't care anything about you.

LIGHTHEAVY MATCH MAIN ATTRACTION

Wilson May Again Meet Tartar in Railroad Rout; Fishbaugh Faces Domar in Semi-Final Go.

With the well known Dr. Ralph Wilson and Railroad Rout furnishing the fireworks in the headliner and Les Fishbaugh opposing Jack Domar in the semi-final wrestling fans should not want for any action in this week's attraction.

Rout, the India rubber man of the mat will find his hands full when he tackles the former collegiate champion. Wilson demonstrated his ability to the fans here in the match last week and although losing to Clete Kauffman he produced a bag of tricks which make him a favorite with local "experts." The big railroader however, will come here in a fighting mood as always and no doubt the good doctor will have a very trying evening before he places his home state opponent's shoulders to the mat for the required time. The match should turn out to be a rival of the Kauffman-Wilson go last week.

Welterweight Bout

For those who prefer to watch lighter and faster men for their grappling, Matchmaker Criswell has signed two of the cleverest welter weights to be found in the state of Ohio, Les Fishbaugh, who has the idol of Newark, Ohio, for a time, will stack up against the bulldogger, Jack Domar, by Fishbaugh has a deadly flying by which he frequently carries opponents to the canvas before know what it is all about. This should be another of the world variety.

Long Time Sleep, the Indiana rival wrestler from LaRue will it out in the preliminary with Flannigan, the Marion heavyweight. Incensed at the challenge which Marionite buried to the county general from the ringside of week's matches the Redskin was promptly agreed to furnish the opposition for the big Irishman. It should be a great prelim.

SPIRIT OF SPRING

Woman Helps Officer After He Stops Her for Speeding

By The Associated Press

EVANSTON, Ill., March 13—Mrs. Robert J. Folonie's spring fever took an unusual turn yesterday.

Mrs. Folonie, wife of a Chicago attorney, was driving down one of Evanston's main streets when Policeman Elmer Reiter overtook her and gave her a ticket for speeding. His car balked when he tried to follow her to the station.

"Officer," she said, "I haven't any ill will toward any one on earth when it's spring. I'll help you out."

So she drove up behind his car and pushed him a half mile to the station.

Officer Reiter's recommendation got her the minimum fine—$5.

TRUAX SPEAKS

Former State Official Urges Support of Farm Board

By The Associated Press

SANDUSKY, March 13—America is struggling to test whether the farmer shall enjoy modern standards of living or be driven into peasantry, Charles V. Truax, former state director of agriculture said in an address prepared for delivery before the Rotary club here today.

"The acuteness of farm distress can well be visualized by a glance at the wheat market, price levels on Ohio farms being little more than $1 a bushel, which is less than cost of production," Truax said.

He discussed efforts of the federal farm board to maintain price levels above the $1 level. He stated patriotic citizens should support the farm board in its endeavors.

He advocated the export debenture plan, which he said would have added at least $270,000,000 to the amount received by American wheat growers for their 1929 crop.

Commenting on operation of the control system, the report said:

"Evils resulting from the abuse of liquor have ever been present. The sin of drunkenness is still with us and probably will remain with the best of other sins."

The commission declared the day of the large bootlegger was ended. "He is regarded today as the common enemy," it said.

Use of rubbing alcohol and other substitutes was held by the commission as responsible for a large percentage of drunkenness in some sections and stated measures were being taken to eliminate this abuse.

THE GUMPS — BY SIDNEY SMITH

I'LL HAVE TO STOP YOUR ACCOUNTS UNLESS YOU PAY ME SOMETHING - ALREADY YOU OWE ME $60,000.00
I SIMPLY CANNOT DO IT - AND YOU CAN'T COLLECT IT - I AM LIVING UP TO MY END OF OUR CONTRACT - AND IF YOU DON'T LIVE UP TO YOURS YOU LOSE EVERY PENNY - AND I WILL GO TO SOMEONE ELSE WHO HAS MONEY TO LOAN - WHO IS NOT A PIKER - I'M SORRY THAT I CAME TO YOU - YOU DON'T SEEM TO APPRECIATE THIS ENORMOUS BUSINESS I HAVE BROUGHT YOU
BIG INTERESTS HAVE TO INVEST MILLIONS AND WAIT MONTHS AND YEARS — BEFORE THEIR RETURNS COME IN — THEY EXPECT THAT — IF THEY WERE TO BUILD A FACTORY - THE CELLAR ALONE - THE BASEMENT - WOULD COST MORE THAN YOU'VE LOANED ME — AND THEY'D HAVE TO WAIT FOR THE BUILDING TO BE BUILT - AND ADVERTISE THEIR PRODUCT - AND THEY KNOW THAT THEY WON'T GET THEIR MONEY BACK FOR A LONG TIME - WHAT WILL THAT PALTRY $60,000. YOU LOANED ME AMOUNT TO IF I'GET GUMP'S BILLIONS? THOSE STOCKHOLDERS GAMBLE ON THE RETURNS THEY EXPECT FROM THE DOLLARS THEY INVEST — BUT YOU ARE SURE OF YOUR 40%
BUT HOW SURE? DON'T YOU THINK YOU'D BETTER HURRY BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE?
OH DON'T WORRY - THERE ARE JUST AS MANY FISH LEFT IN THE SEA - AND GOOD ONES TOO
I KNOW — BUT THE BAIT — ISN'T THERE DANGER OF THE BAIT BECOMING STALE?
SIDNEY SMITH

KRAZY KAT — BY HERRIMAN

INSTEAD OF WRITING ALL THOSE LETTERS TO YOURSELF ALL THE TIME, WHY DON'T YOU WRITE ONE TO ME FOR A CHANGE?

HERE IT ARE.
NOW I'LL WRITE YOU A REPLY TO ME.

TOOTS AND CASPER — BY JIMMY MURPHY

TOOTSIE IS ALSO GOING IN FOR HORSE-BACK RIDING AS A FORM OF EXERCISE TO HELP REDUCE.
OH, HELLO, HEINIE! WHERE DID YOU BOB UP FROM? I'M TOO WEAK TO SHAKE HANDS WITH YOU! THERE'S NO FOOD IN OUR HOUSE ANYMORE! MY WIFE IS ON A DIET AND I'VE LOST FIVE POUNDS ALREADY!
THIS DIETING BUSINESS IS A LOT OF BUNK! IT MAY BE ALL RIGHT IN SOME CASES, BUT MY WIFE DOESN'T NEED TO REDUCE! SHE'S PERFECT RIGHT NOW!
I'VE NEVER MET YOUR WIFE, CASPER.
OH, IS THAT SO? WELL, THAT'S HER WEARING A RIDING HABIT! YOU'VE GOT TO ADMIT SHE'S PERFECT AS IT IS - IT'S FOOLISH FOR HER TO DIET!
WELL - TO BE FRANK ABOUT IT, I THINK SHE CAN WELL AFFORD TO LOSE A FEW POUNDS, CASPER!

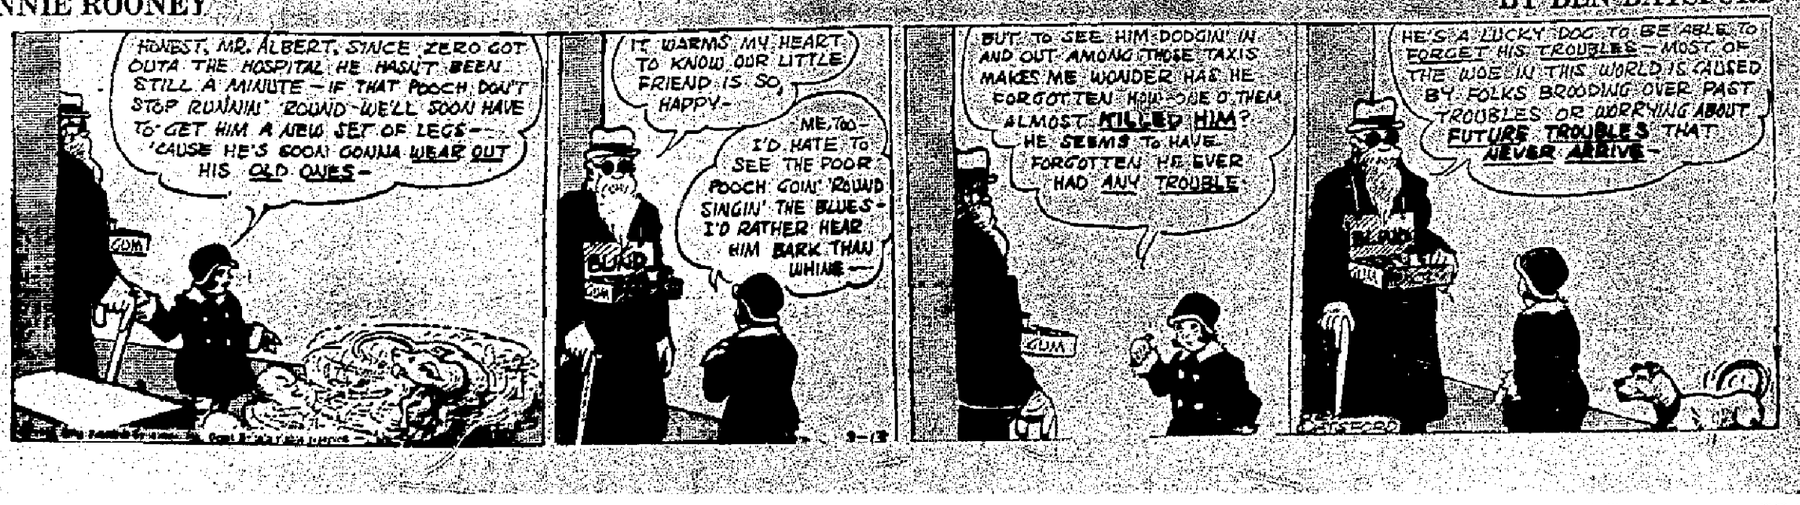
ANNIE ROONEY — BY BEN BATSFORD



HONEST, MR. ALBERT, SINCE ZERO GOT OUTA THE HOSPITAL HE HASN'T BEEN STILL A MINUTE — IF THAT POOCH DON'T STOP RUNNIN' 'ROUND WE'LL SOON HAVE TO GET HIM A NEW SET OF LEGS — 'CAUSE HE'S SOON GONNA WEAR OUT HIS OLD ONES —
IT WARMS MY HEART TO KNOW OUR LITTLE FRIEND IS SO, HAPPY —
ME, TOO — I'D HATE TO SEE THE POOR POOCH GOIN' 'ROUND SINGIN' THE BLUES - I'D RATHER HEAR HIM BARK THAN WHINE —
BUT TO SEE HIM DODGIN' IN AND OUT AMONG THOSE TAXIS MAKES ME WONDER HAS HE FORGOTTEN HOW ONE O' THEM ALMOST KILLED HIM? HE SEEMS TO HAVE FORGOTTEN HE EVER HAD ANY TROUBLE
HE'S A LUCKY DOG TO BE ABLE TO FORGET HIS TROUBLES — MOST OF THE WOE IN THIS WORLD IS CAUSED BY FOLKS BROODING OVER PAST TROUBLES OR WORRYING ABOUT FUTURE TROUBLES THAT NEVER ARRIVE —
BATSFORD

OIL STOCKS CAUSE RALLY

Industrial Reports from Important Centers Are Encouraging.

NEW YORK, March 13—Under the lead of the oils and specialties the stock market rallied sharply today and recovered a good part of Wednesday's lost ground. Confidence in the reduction of the reserve bank discount rate to 3½ per cent after the close of the market was the outstanding bull factor in the financial district, though industrial reports from important centers were distinctly encouraging.

The bears made a raid on the market in the first hour and forced prices of active stocks moderately lower. United States Steel broke to a new low for the movement at 177¾ before meeting with much support, and new losses of 1 to 3 points were recorded for DuPont, Columbia gas and other favorites.

The strong market for the oils was the natural effect of the recent improvement both in crude oil production and in gasoline consumption. Standard Oil of New Jersey rose more than 2 points to 64¼; Atlantic Refining was up 1½ at 48½, the year's high price; Barnsdall up a point; Standard of New York, Texas Corp. and other important independent oils advanced about a point on the average.

Bears predicted a heavy increase in brokers loans and on that basis were ready to fight it out in a number of closely held stocks. Vanadium jumped 5 points to 95 as the result of a "drive" against the shorts.

High Grade Bonds Reach High Levels

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 13—The bond market boiled merrily today, generating enough steam to lift many high grade investment issues to new top prices for the year of considerably longer.

The fuel for the current movement, which got under way a week ago when the Bank of England cut its discount rate, is being provided, of course, by the extreme cheapness of money. Further evidence of easiness came today in another cut in bankers acceptances, the fourth in a week. There was also a general expectation that the New York Federal Reserve bank would reduce its rediscount rate in the very near future—perhaps today.

One of the day's interesting developments was the readiness with which the Pennsylvania railroad's $80,000,000 issue of 40-year 4½ per cent debentures was taken at the offering price of 94½.

Curb Market Shows Improvement

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 13—The curb market displayed a somewhat improved tone today. As liquidation of the utility shares was in smaller volume, and oils attracted increasing demand. Trading was somewhat lighter, as traders were inclined to mark time until the market shows signs of settling into a definite trend.

The petroleum issues were favorably influenced by upholding of the California production control program in the courts, and an increase in gasoline prices by Warner Quinlan. Gulf Oil of Pennsylvania rose more than 3 points to a new high for the year, and Humble, Standards of Indiana, and Kentucky, and Vacuum all moved up a point or more. Cities service, however, was inclined to lag.

Cessna Aircraft Co. May Reorganize Soon

WICHITA, Kas.—The Cessna Aircraft company may become a $1,000,000 corporation if tentative plans are approved by stockholders of the company.

At a meeting of the stockholders they will be asked to consider the proposition of increasing the capitalization of the company from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

Reorganization of the company is also planned.

Control of the company is now in the hands of Eastern financiers. Any reorganization that is accomplished may affect this situation, it is understood, and control may pass to other quarters.

Clyde V. Cessna, a pioneer of aircraft construction in Wichita, is president of the Cessna company.

Thieves Bind Watchdog While Robbing Junk Man

CLEVELAND — Don't mention watch-dog to Nathan Levine. Cleveland metal dealer, if you want him for a friend.

After being bothered by a gang of youths who have been breaking into his barn and stealing metal, Levine decided to put a stop to it.

He purchased a watch-dog, and tied him inside the barn—a warning to robbers.

The next morning when Levine went to his place of business, he discovered the "pooch" had been tied outside the barn, apparently by robbers, and that 600 pounds of brass was missing.

Local Dog Fancier Evolves New Method of Selling Pets

J. M. Wiant, local dog fancier, has evolved a new and unique method of advertising the sale of his puppies. Instead of merely sending descriptive literature concerning the pets, Mr. Wiant plans to send a motion picture film of his dogs to prospective purchasers in order that they may see the particular dog in which they are interested. These pictures are taken of the dogs in actual life so one may see them scampering around on the screen just as in real life. In case the interested person does not possess the necessary projecting machine they may take the films to any dealer in their home town and have them shown.

MYSTERY SOLVED

Vernon Heights Air Visitor Picked Vacant Lot to Land

Mystery surrounding the appearance of an Enderock airplane in Vernon Heights one day this week was cleared up today when it was learned that the pilot was Eugene Cernebram, of Niles, Mich.

The pilot came to Marion to see Alan Warwick, 323 Hane av., in regard to the formation of a glider club, it was stated today.

A Vernon Heights vacant lot was chosen as a landing field in preference to the city airport after the pilot looked over the port west of the city. He landed and took off with no difficulty.

Now . . . right in your own J. C. Penney Co. store are new Spring coats, frocks and ensembles, inspired by those that so recently made their debut in Paris.

Each one with a dressmaker's touch of flattery that even the prettiest frocks have not had in years. For the French originals like our own adaptations, show the universally becoming lingerie touch on almost every dress. In the important matter of skirt length, too, we've followed the dictates of the great courturiers and made them a trifle shorter than in the Winter mode. . . .

These are but two of the many details of new fashion interest reproduced in our collection for Spring. And each dress . . . coat . . . and ensemble that they adorn is made with the care that women expect to find in J. C. Penney clothing.

'Auntie' Shelton Observes Ninety-Fifth Anniversary

MR. AND MRS. BERT J. SHELTON are entertaining with a family dinner today at their home, 378 South Vine st., for the pleasure of Mr. Shelton's mother, Mrs. Jane A. Shelton, who is celebrating her ninety-fifth birthday anniversary. Guests will include Mrs. Shelton's children, John E. Shelton, Columbus; Grant T. Shelton, Broadway; Mrs. Jennie Truitt, Silver st.; together with their families.

Code of Living

Mrs. Shelton, who makes her home with Mrs. Truitt, Silver st., is enjoying good health, and is taking the keenest enjoyment in the celebration of her anniversary. To her host of relatives and close friends Mrs. Shelton is known as "Auntie" Shelton. She attributes her long life to her code of living which she has practiced all her life, "of working hard, going to bed early, arising early, minding her own business, forgiving mutual faults, cooking her own meals and going to church."

Mrs. Shelton was born in Ross county on Friday, March 13, 1835. In 1857 she moved with her husband, William T. Shelton, a Civil war soldier, to Broadway, where two years later Mr. Shelton died, leaving her with a family of eight children, the oldest being 20 and the youngest one year of age.

Mrs. Shelton maintains an active interest in current affairs. Her hobby in culinary art was bread-baking, at which her relatives and friends will vouch, she was prize winner.

Marion Man Contributes to Garden Publications

Marion horticulturists are coming to the fore. From ranger [illegible] gardenists they are becoming of note in the garden[illegible]

[illegible] Hall, 210 Summit st., [illegible] a plant hybridizer by [illegible] of Agriculture. Bu[illegible] Introduction in Washington, is the author of two [illegible] stories in the February March numbers of the [illegible] Chronicle of America."

the only all-gardening magazine published, and is the official magazine of the National Association of Gardeners.

Mr. Gottschall has a remarkable flower garden in the rear of his home, and also has a lot on East Church st., where each summer he makes a specialty of gladioli raising.

The February article is "A Garden—In Ten Acts," which tells what flowers to plant to have a continual bloom in the garden from early March to November, when the chrysanthemums close the season.

The article is written after the manner of a play, with 10 acts from March to November.

Tall-bearded Irises were material for the March article. In these, Mr. Gottschall, who is an ardent Iris enthusiast, lauds those beautiful flowers for their lusty growth, variety of color and their adaptability.

His registration as a hybridizer gives Mr. Gottschall the opportunity of receiving all specimens sent to the department in Washington, to experiment with and observe.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year in which new undertakings may be launched following upon the removal of tenacious obstacles. Intrigue and strategem hold sway, so sign papers cautiously and safeguard the funds.

A child born on this day should be clever and industrious, but may gain its ends by intrigue and subtlety. It should be trained in thrift and prudent handling of its funds.

GANDHI LEADER IN INDIA

OUTSTANDING PERSONALITY IN COUNTRY'S "TEST YEAR"

By The Associated Press

LONDON—One man stands as the crux of the whole troubled political situation in India—Gandhi.

With Indian nationalist demands rising to British ears, and 1930 the test year in modern India's politics, when the 10-year trial of the dyarchy ends, the character and career of Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi stride to greater importance.

Picture him saint or imposter, or rebel against western culture, the fact remains that he is the most picturesque personality in India today.

Clothed as Mystic

His followers have clothed him in mystic saintliness, fostered the belief that through Gandhi only can India achieve independence.

Gandhi is 60 now and remains the only person in history who has ever been able partially to rally the various castes, the Hindus and Mohammedans under the single standard of nationalism.

He was literally born into the political turmoil which has crowded his life.

His father, premier of several small states, had rebuked a British commissioner in public. Apology was demanded and Gandhi's father arrested. But the apology never was made.

Both of his parents were devout members of the orthodox Hindu cult of Vishnu and Gandhi inherited much of their religious enthusiasm.

"I used to be very shy and avoided all company," relates Gandhi in his autobiography. "I was ever afraid lest someone poke fun at me."

Displays Remorse

He tried to smoke cigarets, stole pennies to buy them and contemplated suicide because of what he felt was the enormity of these offenses.

At 13 Gandhi married, after the Hindu custom, a pretty, stubborn girl of his age with whom he was destined to quarrel constantly until the birth of their fourth son. Then, at his suggestion, their relationship became as brother and sister.

At 16, soon after his father's death, he came to England to complete his education at the University of London. He was a backward pupil, found Sanskirt hard and stumbled with many a westerner over Euclid.

For a time he lived on 30 cents a day, eating vegetables and eschewing all meat, milk and eggs. Then reaction set in.

He, whose wardrobe later was to be only a loin cloth, bought a silk hat, a Savile Row dress suit.

Gives Up "Westernism"

That lasted about three months. Another violent reaction took him back to asceticism and he never again attempted to westernize himself.

His contemporary in London was a man named Lenin who afterward was to change the history of Russia.

One of the greatest forces in his life has been the "Sermon on the Mount," says Gandhi.

"It went straight to my heart on the first reading," he explains. "I felt that it contained the truth that renunciation is the highest law of religion.

"Although I chose a path my Christian friends had not intended, I remain forever indebted for the religious quest they awakened in me."

Gandhi studied the sermon and henceforth became an apostle of non-violence.

ONE ACCIDENT IS CAUSE OF DEATH

Claim for Workman's Compensation Is Filed with State Board.

One claim for fatal accident compensation was filed from Marion county with the Industrial Commission of Ohio during January, 1930, statistics of the division of safety and hygiene show.

Marion county had no fatal claims in December.

Morrow county and Union county also had one each, Crawford county had two, Wyandot, Hardin and Delaware counties had none.

Marion county's fatality happened in the manufacturing of metal products, the report shows.

A total of 101 fatalities from industrial injuries was reported for the state in January. That is 12 more than for the previous month and 10 less than in January, 1929. Reports were taken from 44 counties which reported industrial accidents.

Among the causes of injuries, there were 2,518 by machinery, 2,129 by handling objects, 2,200 by stepping upon or striking against objects, 1,682 by hand tools, 1,660 by falls of persons, 1,115 by motor vehicles, and 1,014 by falling objects.

The total number of days lost in January was 967,185, a decided increase over December.

"THE SHADOW which pursues us all"
(John Greenleaf Whittier, 1807-1892)

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—men who would keep that trim, proper form, eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the lithe, youthful, modern figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

pleasures of the living room. The children of school age go to the city or parochial schools and attend the church of their choice.

The door of the home is never locked to parents wishing to visit their children and no set hours are designated for visiting, through the consideration of Mrs. Bain, who believes that if the working man can only see his children in the evening, that should be his privilege. Neither is it locked to officers of the law who bring their wards in any hour of the day or night.

In spite of the merry laughter of the children, which can be heard from basement to the third floor, the home is often the scene of tragedy, for it is here the children are taken when the home is broken up, it is here the homeless babe finds shelter and it is here the boy and girl ponders over the outcome of their first encounter with the law. Often one's sympathy is with the mother, leaving her little one at the home, because she is unable to care for it, and often with the babe, whose mother seems only too glad to be rid of the responsibility of caring for it. A bright side of the picture is found in the placing of many babies in childless homes, and this Mrs. Bain says is the big recompense in the work.

Boys and girls tell Mrs. Bain their tales of adventure and oftimes crime, and, more often than one likes to believe, they do not always stick to the truth. Boys and girls often come back the second and third times as wards of the court while many others find the first experience enough. It is the latter Mrs. Bain often hears from later in their lives.

Problem Serious

"Delinquency is increasing and is one of the most serious problems the state has to deal with," Mrs. Bain believes. Strenuous measures must be taken to curb it within the next five years or delinquency will be beyond the control of authorities, is her opinion in sizing up the situation.

Mrs. Bain has a hobby which to most folks would sound like more work, and that is taking civil service examinations. Among her papers are to be found any number of certificates giving her the right to do state work, including her eligibility to carry on field work at the Ohio reformatory for women. And that isn't all, she plans to take more examinations.

Mrs. Bain has the support of numerous women's clubs and organizations of the city and it is no great surprise, although it is always a happy occasion, when a large bundle of baby clothes arrive from some group whose members have heard she has a number of babies at the home. Individuals also are interested in the home and in its inmates, and often some boy or girl is given a chance, just because some one person took an interest in his or her cause.

Mrs. Bain, who has always loved children, conceived the idea of a home of this sort when she saw a little eight-year-old boy dangling his feet from a chair in the old city jail where he was being held because there was no place else to go.

Mrs. Bain served two years as president of the state Child Conservation League, and is state parliamentarian at the present time. She is interested in all young people's affairs and has served as secretary of the County Young People's Branch of the W. C. T. U. But most of all she is interested in Marion county's children.

PROFESSOR STUDIES SLEEPING HABITS

can be tampered with with more impunity."

No one reported more than 10 nor less than five hours habitual sleep. The average sleep for 25 years is seven hours twenty-five minutes. The minutes sleep over seven hours then increases to about 45 at age 35, to 50 at 45, drop to 45 at age 55, to 40 minutes at age 65, and rise to 45 minutes at age 75. At 85 the sleeping time is 8 hours and 45 minutes.

Develop Technique

Wakefulness at night, however, is a prerogative of age.

More than 70 per cent reported sufficient difficulty in going to sleep to cause them to develop "special techniques."

Thought control was used by 33 per cent; reading by 25 per cent, relaxation by 18 per cent; drugs, not including alcohol, by three per cent, alcohol by two per cent.

"It is interesting," says Dr. Laird, "that approximately half those reporting use of alcohol to insure sleep were college professors of considerable distinction.

"A large number of unusual personal idiosyncrasies are reported in inducing sleep. One editor of a national magazine sticks his feet out from under the bed clothes. One supreme court justice buries his face in his pillow. A young writer strains to keep his eyes open.

Scientifically sound variations of the sheep counting idea appeared. One philanthropist reviews Blackstone's analysis of real estate law. A chain store executive thinks of many things rather than concentrating on one subject. A scientist thinks of star spaces in astronomy. A rabbi counts the beats of the clock pendulum which runs 60 to the minute and by the time he has counted 300 he usually is asleep.

"Three men repeat Masonic rituals. Four either repeat or concentrate on the word sleep. Geographic names are recalled by two. An actor-playwright repeats Christian names in haphazard fashion. A judge counts backward, or repeats the alphabet backward. A college professor repeats the apostles creed over and over.

A journalist thinks over plans for an ideal home. A judge thinks about the binomial theorem of extracts, a few square roots in his head. A Pennsylvania author tries to remember his latest golf strokes."

EFFORTS TO LOCATE OWNERS OF HOG FAIL

Police Hold Slaughtered Animal, but Can't Start Search for Thieves.

Marion police officers were in a peculiar fix today.

Of two things they are certain. One is that the 300-pound hog which was mysteriously slaughtered Tuesday night was stolen. The other is that an owner for the hog must be found before charges can be filed.

Consequently, no special effort can be made to apprehend the "alleged" thieves, for, to date, there is nothing other than theory which would prove them as such.

The hog today had passed beyond all hope of its intended mission. In all probability, several good sized meals were in sight when the persons who slugged the animal with an axe Tuesday night and hauled it to a residence at Hocking and Senate sts. When police discovered what had been done, the animal was taken to the city lot, where it has since remained.

thus far, can make no great difference. If the government sold it for 10 cents a bushel to get rid of it, Uncle Sam's loss would be "small change."

The possible effect on farmers, on general price of wheat and on business, is the serious question.

THE attempt of the government, and the earnest desire of President Hoover to help the farmers, are in every way praiseworthy.

Government finds no difficulty helping the bankers, other financial institutions and even individual stock speculators, through the Federal Reserve.

When money is needed the Federal Reserve bank prints it, lends it to banks, on commercial paper, at a reasonable rate, and the banks make whatever they can by relending.

That is high finance. Helping financiers the government understands. But helping farmers by buying their wheat, goat's hair, etc., when they can't sell to anybody else, is something new.

The grain elevators are full now. On July 1, when the winter wheat crop comes, what will be done with it?

Government might say, "Go ahead and sell it for whatever you can get abroad, and I will pay what you lose."

But that would be dumping, and Europe probably would not allow it.

Britain would not let Canada's wheat farmers be ruined by United States dumping.

On July 1 this country will have two hundred and fifty million bushels of wheat "carry over" from 1928 to 1929.

That is 50 per cent more than a year's normal export.

GOVERNMENT may have a plan that will take care of two hundred and fifty million-bushel carry over plus the winter wheat crop when July 1 comes. But the plan has not been published.

Those familiar with wheat and other grain markets remember that Patten and others were indicted for attempting to do secretly what the government is now doing openly. They wonder what the government solution of the problem will be and they worry about it.

We produce more wheat than we can use. We must sell it abroad sooner or later.

The whole world knows that we are buying and storing it artificially, and knows also that, barring miracles, it should be able to buy American wheat at its own price for the next two or three years.

What will be the effect of the situation?

GANDHI AND PARTY CONTINUING MARCH

India's "Independence" Pilgrimage Enters Second Stage Today.

By The Associated Press

AHMADABAD, India, March 13—Mahatma Gandhi and his party of 79 devotees left Aslali at dawn today on the second stage of their march to the salt fields of Jalapur in inauguration of the campaign for Indian independence.

Unlike yesterday when thousands bade him godspeed outside his college at Ahmadabad, there was no crowd today outside the rest house where the party spent the night, and when the party took the road there were no followers.

The next halt was scheduled for Barejn, seven miles distant, where the Mahatma planned to address a meeting, expounding the "civil disobedience" which the Indian nationalists of his school intend to use in ending British administration of India.

32 INJURED IN RAILWAY FIGHT

By The Associated Press

BOMBAY, India, March 13—Two policemen and 50 strikers were injured today during a fight in the railway shed at Byculla, where the great Indian Peninsula railway maintains a large force. The workers attempted "passive resistance" by lying prostrate and obstructing the loyal workmen.

NUMEROUS CLASHES AND ARRESTS REPORTED

LONDON, March 13—Numerous arrests and bloody clashes in various parts of India today followed in the wake of Mahatma Gandhi's sensational "march to the sea" in connection with his campaign of civil disobedience against British rule.

The most sensational arrest was that of Mayor Sengupta of Calcutta, reported in a Central News dispatch from that city. He was taken into custody on charges of sedition.

At Lahore, according to an Exchange Telegraph message, the well-known extremist leader, Sherjang, was arrested on similar charges. He is alleged to have revealed the existence of a widespread conspiracy of political murders aimed at the overthrow of British rule in India.

As the result of discovery of this plot, governmental troops and police took stringent measures to prevent violence, and a systematic round-up of suspected characters and political extremists was begun.

the description of the car used by the persons who killed Corporal Paul.

After the morning recess Floyd Dickey, Butler, testified that he was in the store the day of the holdup. He identified Dugue, as a man who had entered the store as Dickey was leaving. Bert Bissett, Butler, testified that he, too, saw the man enter, but paid no attention to him. The wife of the store manager identified a pocketbook which she had in the store and which was stolen by the robbers. She was not in the store at the time of the holdup.

Mrs. Lena Burkholder, the next witness, said there was nobody in the store when she entered. She heard a commotion in the backroom, from which there emerged a man and a woman whom she identified as Mrs. Shrader.

Wayne Diffendorfer told of finding Augert bound and gagged in the ware room.

During the morning recess Mrs. Shrader was taken to the law library of the courthouse, where she lay down on a cot.

"SCALPERS" SELLING COUNTERFEIT TICKETS

By The Associated Press

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 13—Ticket scalpers were discovered today doing a brisk business in counterfeit tickets of admission to the murder trial of Irene Shrader. To make sure that witnesses, newspapermen and court officers could get through the throngs seeking entrance, the court had issued tickets to privileged persons. Scalpers had counterfeited these tickets and were selling the counterfeits.

AGED MAN TAKES REFUGE AT STATION

Civil War Veteran Lands Here After Leaving Dayton Soldiers' Home.

An aged man, giving his name as Melvin Curtis Hoxter, said to be 90 years of age, was at city police station this morning. Yesterday, he said, he left the National Old Soldiers' home at Dayton.

"'Daddy Hoxter" a title which he soon obtained from officials this morning, is not broke. He receives $90 a month from the government, he says. "Blood money," he calls it, for four "terrible years." Those years were spent in the Civil war.

He told officials this morning he was born in Marion.

Efforts were being made this morning to care for the man, and either to locate him in some room, or return him to the Soldiers' home.

He claims to be a veteran of Company K, Fourth Ohio Volunteer Infantry. Although able to make his way around, his eyesight is poor, and he leans heavily on a cane. He has kept himself clean and well dressed.

Chapman Gets Verdict Against Former Tenant

Roy E. Chapman, deputy sheriff, was given a verdict of $400 yesterday by a jury in common pleas court against Ralph Johnson.

The plaintiff alleges that Johnson, as a tenant on his farm, had planted crops last year and that in June he left without making arrangements to cultivate them, thereby causing the plaintiff a loss of $400.

The strike was said to have been called because the seamen's union did not approve of contracts which the men had signed with the steamship company.

The detective chief said that communications from Kansas City and St. Louis police had given detailed records of Frankie Mitchell and Nathan King, who were arrested with Bert Walker, alleged triggerman in the Manes slaying.

The body will arrive here tonight and be taken to the Hess, Markert & Axe funeral home, East Church st., to await services there at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, pastor of First Presbyterian church, will officiate. Burial will be at the side of his wife's grave in Clyde cemetery, near Martel.

Although Mr. Dorian has no close relatives living here, all of his wife's relatives live in the county. He has three sisters and a brother in Cincinnati and a son, Delphos Dorian, Cleveland.

SACRIFICES LIFE

Policewoman Killed While Saving School Children

By the Associated Press

GARY, Ind., March 13—Mrs. Pearl A. Lanham, traffic policewoman, mother of four children, was killed here yesterday by an automobile at a street intersection.

She gave her life to save three school children who were in danger of being struck by the car.

Mrs. Lanham was stationed at the Glen Park school to protect children from traffic. She had just escorted a group across the street and was returning for another group when a car driven by John L. Nicholas, 35, of Griffith, a Gary suburb, approached. Three children darted out to meet her. She ran forward and screamed a warning which sent the children scurrying back to the sidewalk. She was unable to avoid the automobile and was struck and killed. Nicholas was held on a charge of manslaughter.

Mrs. Lanham's four children range in age from one to eight years. Her husband, James H. Lanham, is a railroad employe but has been out of work most of the winter.

Congregation Night at Church Well Attended

First United Brethren church was well filled last night for congregation night. From 7:15 to 8 o'clock songs, prayer and devotionals were held, with music by the junior choir, under the direction of Miss Virginia Fowler, and by a mixed quartet including Miss Fowler, Miss Lola Cromer, B. K. Hill and William Curran.

At the close of the program the church parlors were given over to a fellowship meeting.

Man Pleads Not Guilty to Charges in Court

Harry Myers, giving his address as Marion, and said by officials to be a local barber, pleaded not guilty this morning to a charge of defrauding an innkeeper. He will be given hearing in municipal court on the charge on Friday. He is being held under $500 bond.

The charge was preferred by Mrs. Cora Garrett, who claims he failed to pay her $53 due for lodging.

Former Resident of Marion Is Claimed

Relatives here have received word of the death in Toledo of Mrs. Velma Hinkson, 47, former Marion resident. Mrs. Hinkson died yesterday and will be buried Friday in Toledo. She was born near Broadway. The husband is surviving.

Man Ordered by Court To Pay Child's Support

Garrett Hostetter, 28, of Columbus, was ordered to pay $20 a month for the support of his child when he pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning to a non-support charge. He was placed under $500 bond to guarantee the payment of this amount, and given a suspended workhouse sentence.

The charge was preferred by Mrs. Lanya Hostetter, who charges he has failed to provide for his one child since March 1, 1929.

BOUND TO GRAND JURY

Ray Dutton, 33, of 187 South Sellner av., was bound to the grand jury under $300 bond this morning when he pleaded not guilty in municipal court to a statutory charge. He was arrested on the charge last night by police officers.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and, thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

7 Hours in Bed and Not 7 Minutes' Sleep!

The Toll Acidity Takes

When you go to bed dog-tired and still can't sleep and you rise in the morning more tired than when you went to bed, it's a sign you're "acid." Excess acid, causes acid-indigestion with gas, sourness and burning and sets up poisonous putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal which saps our strength and vitality.

Magnesia Oxolds correct acidity in the right way! Upon contact with the acid in the stomach Magnesia Oxolds generate nascent, or active, oxygen. The "live" oxygen stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus, checks putrefaction and stimulates the activities of the intestinal walls which aids the natural movement of the bowels. All three effects are necessary to the true correction of acidity.

To ascertain just how "acid" you are, get a package of Magnesia Oxolds from Bradley's Drug Store or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal for a few days and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep. If you don't get more than amazing results, return the balance of the Oxolds to the druggist and he will refund the purchase price promptly.—Adv.

Daily Proverb—"Away goes the devil when he finds the door shut against him."

We are reminded of the late Charles A. Dana's dictum, that "when the man bites the dog it's news," by the death of a well-known gangster from natural causes, up in Chicago this week.

"American Tourists Spend $300,000,000 in Year in Canada," reads a headline over a Montreal wire story. And it is very probable that no account, at that, was taken of the cost of aspirin used "the morning after."

Improvement is being shown by the Chicago papers. The most of them ran the story of the funeral of a well-known gangster, who was "taken for a ride" a few nights ago and buried Wednesday, on inside pages, and described the $15,000 coffin and the four carloads of flowers in about half a column, not counting the "art."

A survey made at the direction of the Chicago board of education developed 723 unnecessary jobs provided in the operation of the city's schools, causing an annual waste of $1,452,000. But what's a little matter like a million or two when it comes to keeping "the boys" sweet for political purposes?

"You never can tell," remarks an exchange. "The woman who picked up Cal. Coolidge's half-smoked cigar may have been only collecting cigar bands." It strikes us as something in the way of an outrage that any paper should intimate that Mr. Coolidge is the kind of a man who would smoke a cigar without removing the band.

Michigan's "life-for-a-pint" woman is back in her home, having been released from state prison under a bond of $2,500 to await a new trial granted her by the state supreme court. Another evidence of the fact that penalties of such severity may be carried by laws as to make the laws ineffective.

A New York motorist without any provocation whatever deliberately swerved out of his course and killed one policeman in New York, a day or two ago, and tried to kill a second, the latter escaping death by jumping out of the way. Sad to relate, the second policeman overlooked a chance to use his gun to good effect. Shooting down such a driver is not only excusable; it's highly commendable.

Chairman Eugene F. Brock, of the Michigan commission of labor and industry, reports that the employment conditions in the 355 industries making reports to his office was 7.1 per cent. better in February than during the month of January and 3.4 per cent. above December, 1929, and that the pay-roll totals of February were 28.9 per cent. above those of December. Another straw to show that the tide has turned.

Modification of Jones Law Favored.

The Christopherson house judiciary subcommittee has recommended drastic modification of the Jones law by approving the Stobbs bill, which defines ordinary violations of the prohibition law and fixes a maximum penalty of six months in jail without hard labor and a fine of $500, or both, for such offenses.

The terms of the Jones law makes every violator of the prohibition law, whether he be a rum-runner, a big bootlegger or a mere toter of a flask, a potential felon, subject to a maximum penalty of five years in prison at hard labor, a fine of $10,000, or both.

"A single sale by a person not engaged in habitual violation of the law; unlawful making of small quantities of liquor, where no other person is employed; assisting in unlawfully making or unlawfully transporting liquor; unlawful transportation of small quantities of liquor by a person not habitually so engaged," is the clause in the Stobbs bill defining casual or minor offenders against the prohibition law.

There can be no question but what the excessive severity of the Jones law is its greatest weakness. The idea of invoking the law in the cases of casual or minor offenders, as defined in the Stobbs bill, was repugnant to many prominent and influential drys and, it may be said, pleasing to many leading wets, as it gave ground to the latter for criticism of the lengths to which the proponents of prohibition would go to make crimes of offenses which were not in themselves crimes, save under the law.

If the Stobbs bill is enacted into a law it will serve to strengthen rather than weaken the liquor law, for juries would not refuse to return a verdict of guilty under the modified law and courts would not revolt at the idea of inflicting the penalties and fines prescribed in the law with the modifications provided by the bill.

No Excuse for Such Talk.

"Are you willing to go to war for prohibition?" an Associated Press wire reports Rev. William Bartlett, of Chicago, to have asked a prohibition gathering in Boston. Applause was the response of the audience, and the Rev. Mr. Bartlett, continuing his scorching arraignment of the liquor evil, went on:

"The prohibition question in Massachusetts will not be settled until men are ready to go to war to stamp this devilish and hideous thing out of existence."

We know nothing of the Rev. Mr. Bartlett save what we glean from the foregoing quotation. His standing in his home city may not be sufficient to enable him to negotiate the purchase of a pound of soda crackers on credit. Again, he may be one of the most influential ministers of Chicago. But this may be said: the higher his standing, the more dangerous and thus the more reprehensible his utterance.

Let us put the thing in another way. Let us assume that a champion of personal liberty had addressed a gathering of ultra wets and said:

"Are you willing to go to war for personal liberty? The right of personal liberty in Massachusetts will not be settled until men are ready to go to war to stamp this devilish and hideous thing called prohibition out of existence."

What is the essential difference in the folly of the two statements? What possible excuse can the utterer of one offer that can not be offered by the other? What possible excuse can be offered for any utterance along the line of either the one made by the Rev. Mr. Bartlett or the hypothetical one? Absolutely none.

The liquor evil and prohibition have combined to make one of the most serious problems the country has ever faced. Why add to its menace by talk of war? Any thinking person should appreciate the fact that the people of the United States are more than enough exercised over the liquor problem as it is without the further exciting of them by talk of war. Such talk is morally criminal, if not legally.

Negotiable stocks valued at $85,500 were secured from a New York firm of stock brokers, one day this week, by a man who posed as an employe of a next-door broker. Can any one imagine an incident like that in Main Street? Well, hardly!

A wire from Florence, Arizona, says that the peace pipe which Mr. Coolidge smoked with Pima and Apache Indians at the dedication of the Coolidge dam, has disappeared. Not so surprising. The average Indian pipe should be able to walk off by itself.

Soviets' Railroads in a Bad Way.

Announcements recently carried in Moscow publications make evident that the railroads of soviet Russia are in very bad shape, and that the Moscow commissariat on ways and communications has appealed to the German railroad administration to furnish trained specialists to save the situation. A recent issue of the Moscow Isvestia told of the reaching of an agreement by the two countries under which these trained specialists are to reorganize the management of the Russian railroads, and stated that twenty-five trained engineers had already started for Moscow and that more were to follow in April.

The Economic Life of Moscow throws light on the serious situation of the railroad industry by stating that less than twenty per cent. of the trains over there are running on schedule and that wrecks and blockades are increasing in number. Without stating the period during which such wrecks occurred, the same publication states that, of the wrecks reported, 522 were due to broken axles, 103 as the result of the breaking of steel tires on the wheels of locomotives and that forty-six resulted from broken rails. It goes further and says that locomotive repairs which should be made in five or six days, often take six times as long and that eighty per cent. of the repaired engines soon break down and can not be operated. As a result, the amount of motive power available for use has been reduced to such an extent that the number of both passenger and freight trains has been cut considerably since the first of the year with resultant bad effect on both agriculture and industry.

An investigation developed that the trouble in the repair shops was in part due to the fact that the soviet steel mills have been furnishing the railroads with inferior steel, and due in part to the lowering of the discipline of the workers in all branches of the industry, who are dissatisfied although they receive the largest food rations of any class of Russian workers.

Here we have another illustration of the fatal weakness in the communistic system. By taking away from the worker the incentive of personal gain as the outcome of his efforts, it does away with pride in his work, pride of accomplishment, pride in the possession of reward for his work, and he becomes indifferent and shiftless.

Senorita Julia Salazar, "Miss Costa Rica" in the international flesh display down in Miami, Florida, objected to wearing a bathing suit and insisted on wearing an evening gown unless the judging was done on the beach, saying that "in Costa Rica people do not look with favor upon a girl who walks around a park in a bathing suit." How quaint!

It was but a week or such a matter ago that the Coolidge dam was dedicated, the purpose of which is to impound water to irrigate arid land that it may become productive. Yesterday congress appropriated $100,000,000 more for the use of the farm board in maintaining the prices of farm products. We expend millions to increase the acreage of lands which may grow crops and by overproduction pull down the prices of farm products and then appropriate hundreds of millions to restore prices of farm products to the price levels from which they fell. How much longer is this vicious circle to be maintained?

"AND SO THE POOR PIG HAD NONE."

An Ounce of Caution.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

There are many people who suffer greatly from catarrhal inflammation of the nose, eyes and throat either during the summer and early fall, or throughout the entire year. "Hay fever" is a malady of a catarrhal nature, but it is a violent, acute thing, worse than ordinary catarrh.

It is called hay fever, but hay doesn't seem to have much to do with it. The ailment is associated with many other things.

Summer, when the air is filled with the odor and pollen of flowers and grasses, is the time that most victims suffer from the ailment. Some have it in the season of roses, or when the various grasses are ripe, as when there is the odor of newmown hay in the air.

Goldenrod, ragweed, and other early fall flowers are a menace to the sufferers from hay fever. Intense heat and moisture, dust from the streets and roads, as well as physical disability from overwork, may bring on the attack.

If you ever have had this miserable disease, you perhaps had it appear suddenly, almost on the same day and hour it had appeared for years. You would feel uncomfortably nervous. There would be itching, with watery discharges from the eyes and nose, with occasional violent sneezing spells. You would feel about as wretched as a person could be. It is an abominable set of symptoms.

When hay fever gets a start, the mucous membrane of the nose swells and there is an almost continuous discharge from the eyes, nose and throat. Breathing is difficult. Sleep and appetite are poor. After a while, the inflammation creeps down to the bronchial tubes. There is a wheezing cough and an asthmatic condition. Sometimes the inflammation extends to the stomach and intestines.

If it is a possible thing, one should get away into the mountains where the air is pure and dry, and the vegetation is not irritating. Either this or a trip to the Great Lakes or an ocean voyage seems to be the only thing which will give prompt relief. Even then you may have to go more than once, perhaps every year.

But not every one can change his abode, even if he suffers greatly from hay fever. But at least you can be careful about the diet. Keep the skin active with a daily bath. Sleep all you can. Keep the bowels in good condition.

There are many preparations for use in inhalers or sprays which give temporary relief permitting one to sleep. But all such things, including medication, should be used upon your doctor's advice.

Most of our large hospitals have special clinics for treatment and advice in cases of hay fever. Here are good doctors who give advice for the relief of the sufferer.

There is much to do beforehand to ward off the attack or to lessen its severity. Nasal treatment or slight operative procedures are frequently of great value.—Copyright, 1930, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Editorial Opinion.

THE WILBUR PUBLIC DOMAIN PROPOSAL.

When Secretary Wilbur proposed the turning over of surface rights in the great grazing areas of the public domain to the states in which these lands are situated, he probably thought that in the states immediately concerned, at least, there would be only one side of the question, and that side in favor of the proposal. In the discussion that has followed, however, opposition has been strong, even in the public lands states.

What the people in those states have wanted is not the mere surface rights, but the timber that grows above, and the mineral wealth that lies underneath. With the well-timbered areas set aside as national forests, and the mineral rights held back in the proposed transfer, the offer makes but a weak appeal to them. Furthermore, prominent men in the states concerned, who are well acquainted with the problems involved, are convinced that their states will gain more from these lands in the end if they shall remain in possession and care of the federal government.

This has been brought out forcibly in a series of articles in American Forests and Forest Life, the fourth of which appears in the March issue from the pen of Dr. George Stewart, agronomist in the Utah States Agricultural college and experiment station. Dr. Stewart starts with the suggestion that the Wilbur proposal "was probably not a mature thought," and we imagine that Secretary Wilbur himself, by this time, recognizes its lack of ripeness.

The fact is that the chief values of this portion of the public lands today lie in their relation to problems which are not bounded by state lines—problems of watershed protection, prevention of soil erosion, regulation of stream flow and so on, all problems that demand a comprehensive general plan, to be carried into effect by a single authority. Turning these areas over into the hands of the separate states would simply mean that such problems would not be solved at all, and the whole country would suffer the consequences. To say that the federal government has so far failed in the matter may be true, but that does not alter the fact that the federal government is the only agency that has the power to do anything but fail in this case. The Wilbur proposal, we think, is justly doomed to defeat if it ever gets before congress for legislative action.—Columbus Dispatch.

PREMATURE COLUMBUS.

Just as we had become satisfied that at least this particular portion of history had the support and approval of both the conservative historians and the debunkers, it is depressing to learn in dispatches from Madrid that Columbus didn't really discover America at all, but that it was visited by Columbus—the same person—in the course of a piratical voyage several years previous to the historic date of 1492, and subsequently rediscovered in order to obtain the Spanish vice-royalty for the region. This scholarly theory, the postulate of a Peruvian engineer who has devoted years of research to the matter, reminds us of the remark made by Finley Peter Dunne in the consulship of Mr. Dooley—that so far as he was concerned it didn't make any great difference whether the Odyssey was written by Homer or by another person of the same name.

One of the documents offered in support of the theory is a complaint, presented by Columbus after the death of Isabella, that promises made when he visited the queen to relate to her the details of the American discovery at the age of twenty-eight were never fulfilled. The exact date of Columbus' birth is unknown, but it is believed to have been 1436, in which case it would have been 1464 when he talked with Isabella.

This is all very distressing in the face of our preconceived notions of this historic event, and so far as most people are concerned Columbus, contrary to the usual phrase, was born too early if he was born in 1436. It would have been much more reasonable of him to have entered the world fifteen or twenty years later and so have refrained from rolling the otherwise not too pellucid stream of history.— New York Herald Tribune.

Cosmic Origins.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

One of the unceasing efforts of science is to disclose the facts, as well as the reality of our cosmic origins. Where did we come from, and how did we come to be what we are and where we are? It is generally agreed that we do not have to go back an infinite distance in time to arrive at the material beginning of things. Arguing by analogy, from established rates of evolution and devolution, of progress and degeneration, it is possible to arrive rationally at a credible date—say within a few millions of millions of years—for the material origin of the cosmos.

There was a time when the astronomer believed that the universe as a whole was chaotic—some queer magma of fire mist, dust particles, gas, liquid matter. It must have been literally without form and void of any great ponderous accumulations of matter. The fine particles of matter scattered with varying densities throughout far-extended space emitted sparks—since all matter we now know to be electrical, composed of electrons and protons.

All this great motion—for these particles moved about, jostled each other, or avoided each other, depending upon the relative proportion of electrical constituents—took place in virtual darkness, save as it was broken by the sparkling of radiant matter. Surely darkness was upon the face of the deep—there were no huge suns or aggregations of suns, which we now call globular clusters. Matter had not yet accumulated into huge masses of hot and radiating matter.

In the course of the aeons, particle caught on to particle, aggregation was gradually added to aggregation. Like a snowball, an aggregation, once begun, rolled on, gathering new accretions of matter with increasing rapidity. There was an inevitable contest for supremacy between these aggregations. The larger bodies attracted—by electro-magnetism, by material influence, by gravitation, whatever name you choose to use—the smaller bodies. The first masses formed were giant aggregations of stars—hundreds of thousands of stars in a single grouping—which moved through space as a self-contained system. Our own galaxy constitutes one such system. The bodies in the universe which we recognize, through telescopic and mathematical study, to be of this character are spiral nebulae. The name of island universes has been happily invented to describe these vast aggregations of stars.

The persistent and powerful influence of gravitation gradually brought about astounding results. Masses separated in star clusters; and these clusters into stars, which came to be widely separated. The result of powerful electrical forces, in these agglutinations of matter, was to cause a great glow which registered the contact and conflict of the individual particles.

It is interesting to observe that cosmic bodies have a tendency to standard size. The sun is a fairly good example of this standard for stars. If a body is very much larger in mass and greater density than our sun, it tends to subdivide, in its internal "need" for "standardization!" Thus the universe passed through its first great phase. The stars continued to shed their heat and light throughout the universe. They gradually began to die, eating up their own bodies in the course of shedding aetherial waves of radiation.—Copyright, 1930, International Feature Service, Inc.

GOVERNMENT SCORES DOHENY LOAN ALIBI

Defense Claims Oil Man Sent $100,000 to Fall as "Old Friend."

By The Associated Press BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, March 13—After counsel had outlined prosecution and defense contentions in the bribery trial of Edward L. Doheny, wealthy oil man today, the government began the introduction of documentary evidence, among it being the order by President Harding in 1921 placing jurisdictions of naval oil reserves under the navy and interior departments.

WASHINGTON, March 13—Government efforts to prove that Edward L. Doheny, wealthy oil man, gave a bribe of $100,000 to Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, opened before a jury today with Owen J. Roberts, special prosecutor, ridiculing contentions by the defense that the money was a loan from one old friend to another.

Doheny is charged with giving the money to Fall to influence the then secretary of the interior to award a lease to the Elk Hills naval oil reserve to Doheny's company. Fall was served to Doheny's company. Fall was convicted last October on a charge of accepting a bribe, despite the oil man's testimony in his defense.

Roberts outlined the government's case to the jury by telling the nine men and three women that the prosecution hoped to show that Fall and Doheny had conspired to get the reserve awarded to the Pan American Petroleum and Transport Co. The jury which had spent the night at a hotel was brought into court a few minutes before Justice William Hitz took the bench. He told the jurors that the opening statements must be accepted only as what the counsel hoped to show.

Attorney Hogan, who followed Roberts, summed up the defense and said that Doheny might have expected to make $100,000,000 over a period of 30 or 40 years after the expenditure of $100,000,000 or $150,000,000. He also indicated that he would attempt to show that the oil man bid for the lease through patriotic motives.

URBANA ATHLETE ORDERED AWAY

Youth Held Responsible for High School Trouble Barred from City

URBANA, March 13—Urbana today had become a "closed city" to Arnet Loy, 21, who gained fame here as a high school athlete, and who is held directly responsible for the suspension of Urbana High school from the High School Athletic association.

Following the recent liquor scandal here, when Loy is alleged to have obtained liquor from a bootlegger for high school students, the youth was brought into court, and it was ascertained that he was 21 years of age, which is above the age limit set by the association for participation in high school sports.

Liquor charges against Loy were dismissed when he promised to quit school.

The case was "hushed up" almost immediately, but it came to the forefront again yesterday when Loy was released from the city jail on a charge of drunkenness.

He escaped prosecution on this second charge by promising to "get out of the city and remain out."

End Bunion Pain Forever

No Need to Suffer Another Day These Agonizing Torturing Pains

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflamed, swollen toe joints and get them down to normal, and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning, and people who suffer from such enlargements would be wise to reduce them before they reach a more or less chronic state.

Ask any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces last a long time, and further more if this wonderful discovery does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special Note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Emerald Oil at once. By applying night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.—Adv.
